

ALDERMAN J. L. CARPENTER PREVENTS BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING WORK FROM BEGINNING TODAY

Council Increases Police Committee Authority

DEPARTMENT CHIEF LIMITED IN POWER TO PROMOTE MEN

Hartsfield Measure Passed After Division by Vote of 18 to 14 at Council Session Monday.

COUCH ASSAILS IT AS POLITICAL MOVE

Author Defends New Ordinance as Means of Preventing Dissension and Delay in Administration.

An ordinance virtually stripping Chief of Police James L. Beavers and all other department heads of the city government of authority to select officers for promotion and assignment was passed by a vote of 18 to 14 at the regular session of city council Monday afternoon.

As usual, the measure relating to the police controversy, evoked lively discussion among council members divided in their opinion, there being a number of hot debates before final action was taken. A ye and nay vote on the amendment resulted in a victory for the police committee, the count being 18 to 14 in favor of the ordinance.

Couch Leads Opposition

Councilman J. Allen Couch led the fight against the amendment, which provided that heads of municipal departments shall have the authority to nominate six men for positions or promotions and, in the event the supervising committee shall fail to elect one of the six, then nomination and election by the committee on its own motion shall be in order, the department head being required to read the eligible list until the name of the person meeting with the committee's approval is reached.

"This is the highest-handed piece of political legislation I have ever known to come before this body," he shouted. Councilman Couch as the clerk finished reading the amendment, "It's nothing more than a scheme to promote additional politics in the police department, which is already something with discord in that respect."

"Nobody in Atlanta actually knows who is chief of police, unless it be George Spence, attorney for Chief Beavers. Ever since the police committee assumed charge of this department it has been in the throes of dissension and discord. This measure is politics pure and simple and will only bring about more dissension and discord. There are two departments of the city government that should be free from politics—the police and the fire department."

MAYBE AMERICANS CAN GIVE REASON FOR THIS INCREASE

Quebec, Que., April 16.—Government sale of liquor proved so lucrative in 1922 that a reduced price list was forecast today by the provincial liquor commission.

Profits for the year were $5,500,000, according to treasury estimates not yet completed reports.

'BACK DOOR' PLAN BARRED IN RUHR CASE BY FRANCE

Prominent Germans Denied Conference Because of Lack of Official Government Connection.

Paris, April 16.—A number of prominent Germans of the Ruhr came to Paris to discuss a settlement of the coal war but were turned away from the Quai D'Orsay because they had no official connection with the German government. The futile efforts of the Germans to see Premier Poincare last week was revealed in an authoritative statement Monday.

The government made it plain that it will not countenance the use of "back door" diplomacy by Germany in an effort to bring peace in the Ruhr. If the Germans want peace, it was made clear, they must come forward with direct proposals and not make use of indirect means. France, it was said, wants any proposition made in "plain daylight."

Whatever Germany has to offer, it was stated, will be discussed between the allies not in the Ruhr—France, Belgium and Italy, England, the French believe, may be induced to participate in a "peace" parley.

Answers Von Rosenberg

In answering the speech made by Baron Von Rosenberg, German foreign minister, in the reichstag Monday, it was declared that the Germans were given full opportunity to make a reparations offer to the allied powers conference in Paris in January but did not avail themselves of the chance.

The French statement scoffs at the charge of the Germans that the French are militaristic. "Germany forgets 1914," it was stated.

It was declared that the French government deplored the shooting at the Krupp works at Essen, in which 13 Germans were killed, but adds that it was precipitated by the workmen themselves and that the French cannot be held to blame.

SPLIT IN G. O. P. RANKS IS CAUSED BY WORLD COURT

Harding Is Given Lip Support But Many Republicans Would Like to See Another Candidate.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, April 16.—(Special.) It is true the international court has overshadowed everything else in Washington the past week. It is also true that it developed a clear and serious split in the republican party. But there is far more to the split, and the situation is much more complex than a mere division over the international court. And inasmuch as a chronological statement is often the best way to make a complex situation clear, we may try that method.

It was early in February that Senator Watson, Indiana, made a speech in the senate announcing that the republican party would renominate Harding. Immediately that sentiment was echoed and endorsed by most of the other republican leaders. But to the extent that the public accepted those endorsements as expressing a hundred per cent of good faith and enthusiastic satisfaction with the program, the public was misled.

Preferred Another

Many of those who were loudest in their proclamation to the public of Harding for 1924, added in a whisper to their friends, "but I wish we could have Johnson"; or, "Yes, we must renominate Harding, but we might do better with a different candidate." In short, the announcement that Harding should be renominated was the expression of a shrewd wish only so far as it proceeded from Harding's real friends, men like Daugherty, Lasker and General Dawes.

It is perhaps misleading to pick out these names, for there were many other sincere Harding adherents both among national and local republican leaders. But there was a considerable group, and a particularly vital and aggressive group, of republican leaders whose assent to the program of renominating Harding was mere lip service. They assented to it only because it is the rule to give a president his renomination, and because there is no practicable way of depriving him of the nomination if he demands it or his friends demand it for him.

They realized that to make a fight against the president in office would probably be ruin anyhow, and would certainly create such a party cleavage as would make the nomination valueless to whoever might be the winner. The very fact of the fight would almost insure the triumph of the democrats in the ensuing election.

Harding's Surprise

This was the picture during the closing days of congress when Harding surprised the senate and the country by proposing the international court. Instantly the group opposed to Harding said, "Here is our chance." Most of the observers here in Washington think these anti-Harding men went to Hiram Johnson and said, in effect: "Here now is an issue on which you can fight Harding for the nomination." But Johnson refused that.

"Wonderful Little Girl Is My Wife," Says Man in Will

Baltimore, Mo., April 16.—One of the shortest wills ever filed in the orphan's court here, that of Thomas C. DeRosset, probated today, contained four words:

"Everything to my wife." At the bottom of the document he wrote:

"A wonderful little girl is my wife." DeRosset dropped dead recently while playing golf.

He was born in Wilmington, N. C., and was sales manager of the T. H. Symington company, of Baltimore.

YOUTH CONFESSES BURNING GROCERY TO CONCEAL THEFT

Two Youngsters Held for Burglary and Arson Following Disclosure by Hubert Puckett, 15.

Confessing that with the aid of two other boys he had set fire to the grocery store of F. C. Hannah, at 368 Windsor street, about two weeks ago, to cover a burglary, Hubert Puckett, 15, of 50 Dodd avenue, is being held without bond for trial in juvenile court, and his alleged accomplice, John Bagwell, 16, of 339 East Georgia avenue, was bound over on a charge of burglary and arson by Judge Johnson Monday afternoon in recorder's court. His bond was fixed at $5,000.

J. D. Stevens, 32, who operates a pressing shop near the store, was bound over on a charge of receiving stolen goods and bond was fixed at $800. In his confession Puckett alleges that Stevens was given charge of goods stolen from the store and received one-fourth of the money procured from the cash register in the store.

Tumlin Is Sought

George Tumlin, whom Puckett claims was also a party to the crime, had not been located by the officers at a late hour Monday night and police are of the opinion that he has left town. They expect to arrest him soon.

The Puckett boy was arrested Friday morning by Detectives J. C. Davis and C. H. Whitney at his home, and a blanket charge of suspicion docketed against him. Shortly after the arrest, Puckett confessed the crime and signed a written statement giving an account of the deed, the officers said.

According to Puckett's signed statement he and the other boys were in Stevens' pressing shop on the night of the fire, and one of them asked the other for a cigarette. It was found that there was no cigarette.

DROP IN TAXATION RATES IN ENGLAND IS MADE PUBLIC

Announcement of Reductions Made in House of Commons by Chancellor of the Exchequer.

TAX ON BEER IS CUT ONE PENNY PER PINT

Working Classes Have Been Insufficiently Relieved, Declares Ramsay MacDonald, Labor Leader.

London, April 16.—Premier Bonar Law has made good on one of his most important campaign pledges—the reduction of taxation. Important decreases in taxation were announced Monday by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, when he presented the 1923-24 budget to the house of commons.

The reductions which will bring greatest relief to the burdened Englishman are:

1. Cut of 50 per cent in the corporation tax after June 30.
2. Slashing of six pence off the income tax.
3. Reduction of the beer tax by a penny a pint.

Mail Reductions

In addition to these three big items, it was also announced that there would be substantial reductions in the rates of inland mail, parcels post, and telephone service.

The chancellor stated that, according to his estimate, the revenues for the coming year would aggregate $82,650,000 pounds and expenditures $76,616,000, leaving a surplus of 36,000,000 pounds. Baldwin stated that the 1922-23 surplus of 101,000,000 pounds would be used to pay off the national debt.

Baldwin opened his speech—what was an explanation of the mass of figures in the bill he introduced—by declaring that unemployment had been progressively bettered during the last financial year.

The chancellor stated that although the debt would be reduced during the ensuing year "there will still be plenty for our grandchildren to deal with."

Delivered to U. S. Figures.

The external debt, of March 31, 1922, he said, was 1,000,000,000.

RIGHT TO SEARCH SHIPS FOR BOOZE ASKED OF BRITAIN

London, April 16.—The United States, desirous of preventing liquor smuggling into America, has asked Britain to conclude a treaty providing the reciprocal right to search vessels outside the three-mile limit. This announcement was made in the house of commons Monday by Ronald McNeill, under-secretary of foreign affairs.

WILSON'S LEAGUE APPEAL TO MEET WITH OPPOSITION

If United States Is to Adhere to Covenant, Many Democratic Leaders Favor Reservations.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 16.—Woodrow Wilson's new appeal for the league of nations meets only qualified endorsement among democratic leaders who now favor reservations if the United States is to adhere to the covenant.

Wilson's letter to Representative Rouse, of Kentucky, disclosing that he still believes that the United States ought to join the league unconditionally and similar expressions of James M. Cox and former Justice John H. Clarke have left democratic party leaders divided as to whether it would be wise to conduct the 1924 campaign on the issue of adhering to the league covenant.

Practical politicians of the party believe there has been a trend in favor of the league since the disaster of 1920. But they are not so sure that the pendulum has swung completely back, hence an appeal for unqualified membership in the league would be unwise in their opinion. Reservations which will meet the common objections to the covenant are favored.

May Be Two Groups

If the present division within the party persists, the democrats will sit down to draft their campaign platform split into two groups. On one side there will be the followers of Woodrow Wilson favoring an unqualified commitment. In this group will be Cox and Clarke, Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, and others of the loyal Wilson contingent.

Against them will be William J. Bryan, who has always regarded article X as obnoxious, Bryan, six months before the 1920 convention, warned his party that it would be fatal to go to the country in defense of article X. William G. McAduff will be lined up against his father-in-law on this question. He has always been lukewarm toward the league. Former Senator Hitchcock, who led the Wilson fight for the treaty in the senate, is opposed to bringing the

BUSINESS HEADS SEE CONTINUANCE OF PROSPERITY

Gary, Schwab and Vandervlip Describe Present Conditions in Country's Big Enterprises.

IMMIGRATION LAWS ATTACKED BY GARY

Gain in Business Appears Normal and Healthy, According to Secretary of the Treasury.

New York, April 16.—Three of America's industrial prophets—Gary, Schwab and Vandervlip—whose voices carry the farthest, spoke Monday, after long and sagacious silences. The country, tremulous on the edge of a business boom season, held its breath and listened. Each prophet sang briefly of triumph and concluded with a warning.

Judge E. H. Gary told stockholders of the United States Steel corporation that business is exceedingly good; that the corporation earned over $1,300,000 gross in 1922, which was more than $100,000,000 over 1921; and that the army of steel makers had been granted higher pay for their good and the good of the company.

He shook a warning finger at the exclusive immigration laws, deploring the barrier which keeps lousy laboring men twiddling their thumbs in Europe while American factories keep their "help wanted" signs nailed on American industry must have them, he said.

"Plentiful and Healthy"

Charles M. Schwab, helmsman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, Gary's leading competitor, who is credited with the ability to sense the country's business pulse without a lying on of hands, announced that business is both plentiful and healthy. Using his old standby, the steel industry, as his barometer, he recognized the arrival of a period of business expansion, and congratulated the country that much of the steel stream is going into new construction and railroad equipment.

He, too, added one word of caution. "The utmost care must be exercised," he qualified, "to prevent this expansion of business from developing into a secondary inflation, which would be disastrous."

Perhaps the most pointed chant of triumph, as well as the sharpest warning, came from Frank A. Vandervlip, the financial expert. The entire country, he said is undoubtedly prosperous, with the exception of its farmers. This prosperity appears to be here to stay, he predicted.

Mr. Vandervlip, however, saw the chief peril to sustained business activity in an unfair advance of prices.

Country Wants to Know

It is hardly a coincidence that this trio of business authorities broke silence on the same day; the marvel is that they have not been forced sooner to interpret the significance of the boom movement. With keen

REFUSES APPROVAL UNTIL GIRLS' HIGH PLANS ARE READY

Alderman's Motion to Reconsider Halts Program After City Council Had Given Final Approval.

WORK CANNOT START BEFORE NEXT SESSION

Eleven Members of Board Plead in Vain Against Carpenter's Move to Hold Up Work.

Contracts for erection of the senior high school for boys, approved by the board of education, the bond commission and city council, were held up at least three weeks by action of Alderman J. L. Carpenter late Monday in serving notice of reconsideration when the matter came before the aldermanic board for final action.

Notice of reconsideration automatically delays action on the matter in question until the next session of the aldermanic board, which will be held following the next session of council three weeks from yesterday.

Notice of reconsideration of the contracts was served by Alderman Carpenter despite the pleadings of the other eleven members to allow work on the Boys' High school to begin immediately. Alderman Carpenter steadfastly refused to change his mind, stating that he "would never vote to allow work to begin on the Boys' High school until the contracts and plans for the Senior High School for Girls was in the same status."

The city charter provides that any two members of council can hold up until the next regular session for any measure providing for appropriations of municipal funds, by giving notice of reconsideration. This procedure is identical in the aldermanic board except that any one member can halt final action on appropriations by notice of reconsideration.

Failed in Council

At council's regular session in the afternoon, Alderman Carpenter and Councilman Fred C. Woodall launched a movement to halt work on the Boys' High school, but their resolution fell flat, all other members voting to approve the contracts and permit work on this institution to begin immediately. The two did not serve council with notice of reconsideration.

Actual work on this project would have begun this morning except for the delay caused by Alderman Carpenter's last-minute notice of reconsideration before the aldermanic board, it was declared.

Despite pleadings of the other eleven members of the aldermanic board, who were unanimously in favor of approving the contracts, Alderman Carpenter turned a deaf ear and refused to withdraw his notice of reconsideration. Full support was pledged Alderman Carpenter by the others in his movement to hasten plans and contracts on the Girls' Senior High school, if he would allow the Boys' High work to begin immediately, but he remained unshaken.

"I shall never vote to approve these contracts," declared Mr. Carpenter, "until the plans and contracts for the Girls' Senior High school are in the same status as the Boys' High school."

Sheltering Arms To Open Annual Tag Sale Today

About 250 Children Taken Care of Each Day at Nurseries.

For 30 years, Sheltering Arms, an association of day nurseries, has maintained four day nurseries to take care of the little kiddies whose mothers are compelled to work during the day, and are unable to employ someone to watch them. Today an appeal for funds through the sale of tags, will be made to every Atlantian.

Whether or not these mediums for helping the working mother, making a living for herself and her children, will be continued depends solely on the amount of money raised through the sale of tags, it was stated by those in charge Monday.

Every day more than 250 children are taken care of, bathed, fed and given primary lessons. They romp and play around the nurseries, happy, contented to wait until mother has finished her day's labor. In case of illness, the little ones are given prompt and efficient medical attention.

"Sheltering Arms is a most proper sobriquet for the association," its officials declare, "because it shelters and cares for the little ones, who if they had no one to care for them during the day would play about the streets in danger of their lives. With a clean place to spend the day and thoughtful attendants to instruct and care for them, they will be given a better chance in life."

Workers will be everywhere, on downtown streets and in scattered suburbs today selling tags.

MEXICO SHAKEN BY EARTH SHOCKS

People Are Abandoning Homes in Lowlands Along Vera Cruz-San Luis Potosi Line.

Mexico City, April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The lowlands along the Vera Cruz-San Luis Potosi boundary line are being shaken by strong earth shocks and the alarmed inhabitants are abandoning their homes, according to stories of refugees arriving at the town of Valles, state of San Luis Potosi. The reports do not mention any casualties and the damage has not been estimated.

Press dispatches from Valles today quoting refugees say the inhabitants are fleeing from the region around Tlachichilal. A large stretch of coffee plantation near Tlachichilal is reported to have disappeared.

The latest earthquake reports follow unconfirmed accounts received last week in the capital of a small new crater which had opened and was emitting gases near Huejutla, state of Hidalgo.

Non-Stop Dancers Find Authorities Are Hard-Boiled

Terpsichorean Artists Two-Stepping In and Out of State.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, April 16.—New York's eight non-stopping non-stoppers who have danced their way from this state to New Jersey and back again in their attempts to set a new dancing endurance record, despite the ruling of the law and ball-room proprietors, started a jazz journey to Connecticut tonight.

Threatened by the police here last night, they fox-trotted into a moving van, where a photograph furnished music while they crossed the Hudson to a Fort Lee, N. J., hall. They shuffled peacefully there until this afternoon. The police invited them to leave and they toddled back to their portable dance floor, crossed the river again and went to a Harlem ball room. The manager there allowed them to stay only a few minutes and they waited into the night and more and headed for "somewhere in Connecticut." The managers of none of the dance halls knew what town they might land in.

CONTESTS BANNED.

Cleveland, April 16.—With orders out that no more endurance dancing will be permitted here, 31 dancers were shuffling over three floors overnight in an effort to break the record of 65 hours and 53 minutes set.

Jackson, Miss., April 16.—From his cell in the Lafayette county jail at Oxford, Miss., Theodore G. Bilbo, former governor of Mississippi, will tomorrow morning, according to his friends here, make formal announcement of his candidacy for governor subject to the August primaries.

Oxford, Miss., April 16.—Theodore G. Bilbo, lawyer, political leader and former governor of Mississippi, tonight was under sentence to serve 30 days in the Lafayette county jail for contempt of court as a result of his failure to respond to a federal court summons to appear as a witness for the plaintiff in the suit for damages filed by Miss Frances Birkhead, of New Orleans, stenographer, against Lee M. Russell, governor of Mississippi.

The sentence was imposed in United States district court here today by Judge Edwin R. Holmes when Mr. Bilbo pleaded guilty to the charge and announced himself ready to suffer "whatever, in the light of all the facts and conditions of this case, the penalty of this honorable court shall be."

LINEOLEUM EXHIBIT OF GREAT INTEREST

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Displays Armstrong Products.

Do you have any idea what lineoleum is made of? Do you know how many far-off countries contribute to its manufacture? Did you ever realize that cork from sunny Spain, flax from Siberia, jute from the swamps of India and kauri gum from New Zealand are all brought together in this modern floor covering?

It is a long story, and columns devoted to its telling would not enlighten you half as much as a few minutes spent in front of the window of the Davison-Paxon-Stokes company. This concern has obtained a lineoleum display from the lineoleum division of the Armstrong Cork company, Lancaster, Pa., that is not only remarkably complete, but extremely interesting and instructive. It comprises specimens of every ingredient that enters into the manufacture of lineoleum: sheets of cork bark and ground cork flour, flaxseed and its derivative—linseed oil—jars of color pigments, samples of jute and hurlap, kauri gum and rosins.

Then there are the various blocks used in printing lineoleum, and samples showing successive stages of the printing process. Some require as many as thirteen different colors.

The many large photographs, included in the exhibit, are especially interesting. One shows block-cutters at work; another, the mixing of colors. Still a third shows the immense calendaring machines that exert pressure of thousands of pounds to the square inch and yet can be adjusted to differences as fine as one-thousandth of an inch. Other pictures give some idea of the immense "stoves" or curing rooms, where miles of lineoleum are hung up to season and dry.

It is a real treat for those who like to know how and what things are made of, and anyone who makes it a point to visit this exhibit will be well repaid.

Suburban Drift Of City Shown By Street Cars

People of Atlanta Commuting More Now Than Ever, Report Indicates.

Atlantans are fast becoming suburbanites, according to figures compiled by the Georgia Railway and Power company and filed with the public service commission. The figures show the changes in passenger traffic and the street car lines of the city, disclose a startling trend toward the outlying sections of the Atlanta district by home-seekers.

As Albert Collier, secretary to the commission, remarked in commenting upon these figures, "it is but another illustration of the facility of measuring distance in miles. It should be measured by time."

Enlarging upon this idea, Mr. Collier explained how, to the modern business man, the number of miles separating him from his office is a matter of very little, if any, concern. But what is of large importance to him, is the number of minutes it takes him to reach the aforesaid office in the morning. For instance, you never hear a real estate man saying that a certain desirable home site is "six miles from the center of the city." Instead they say, "twenty minutes from town."

Distances changed. According to this method of measurement, then, the man who lives in Decatur, Buckhead or College Park, today, is 123,200 to 172,028, the man who lived at the corner of Edgewood and Elizabeth, Peachtree and Ponce de Leon, or Whitehall and McDaniel, 60 years ago.

The figures which brought forth all this lecture on physical science are, in some statistics, as follows: College Park, East Point and Hapeville traffic for March, 1923, was 508,454 passengers, compared to 446,019 in March, 1922, almost 62,000 increase.

The main Decatur line jumped, for the same periods, from 328,962 to 356,447, while the south Decatur line increased from 153,200 to 172,028.

The Buckhead line showed a gain of more than 14,000 and other suburban routes a corresponding increase.

Effect of Subdivisions. Development of subdivisions are given as the chief cause of the following increases in traffic:

Forrest avenue-Capitol avenue from 358,589 to 397,472.

Ponce de Leon-West View from 344,475 to 385,841.

Inman park route from 525,922 to 565,499.

Highland avenue-South Pryor from 418,087 to 449,631.

The Peachtree-Whitehall line, always the heaviest traffic carried in the city, dropped from 733,525 to 684,131, showing the greatest loss of any.

In all, 17 of the 25 routes showed large increases in traffic and the total figures for the entire system are given as 6,409,542 pay passengers and 6,553,416 transfer passengers for March, 1923, compared to 6,108,438 pay passengers and 6,498,804 transfer passengers in March, 1922.

The revenues of the company show an increase of $20,000, from $420,065.56, to $440,082.17.

DUKE'S PORTRAIT SENT BY HARVEY AS WEDDING GIFT

London, April 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Harvey, the American ambassador to the court of St. James, has sent Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon as a wedding present, a portrait of the Duke of York, her prospective husband, by John Singer Sargent, the American artist, says the Daily Express.

The duke is the first member of the royal family who ever sat for Sargent for a portrait, the newspaper adds.

SUES FOR EXPENSES Brandt Asks $3,075 for Anti-Saloon Work.

Suit for $3,075 against E. Y. Clarke and Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler Grow, operating as the Southern Publicity association, was filed in Fulton superior court Monday by William F. Brandt, who claims the amount is due him for expenses incurred while employed by the association in managing the Anti-Saloon league campaign in Florida in December, 1919, and January and February, 1920.

According to Brandt, Clarke and Mrs. Grow, then Mrs. Tyler, were conducting the campaign for funds for

PLEADS SELF-DEFENSE ON WAYCROSS SLAYING

Claims Fatal Shot Was Fired as Victim Advanced Making Threats.

Waycross, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Declaring that he shot in self-defense, Herbert Black, 23-year-old white man was arrested last night and lodged in the Ware county jail charged with the murder of Muriel Godwin, aged 42, former employee of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

Godwin was found by arresting officers lying on the sidewalk several feet from the fence in front of Black's home, with on side of his head practically shot away. It is believed that death was instantaneous. Immediately after the shooting Black requested his wife to phone the sheriff to come and arrest him and surrendered immediately upon the arrival of the officers.

According to Black's version of the shooting, Godwin, with several other men, had threatened him several times during the afternoon. He stated that the trouble had started over an argument between a neighbor and a boy, and that Godwin had armed himself with a .45 caliber pistol three times during the afternoon.

Shortly after dark Black claims that Godwin sent his daughter over to his house telling him that she wanted to speak with him, but the girl had warned him that her father was armed and was going to shoot him.

Some time later the defendant says he found it necessary to go out in the yard to cut some wood, and fearing Godwin carried his shot gun with him, he stated Godwin came over to his fence, threatened him, and lifted one foot over the fence to come in the yard at the same time making a motion to reach for pistol in his hip pocket. Then the Black claimed that he fired, Godwin falling back, face downward.

Godwin is survived by his widow five children, Milton, Cecil, Louis, Hazel and W. M. Godwin, and his father, B. A. Godwin, of Pierce county. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Mr. Pleasant church, Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

CENTRAL REALTY SOLD FOR TOTAL SUM OF $350,000

Sales of central property involving approximately $350,000 were announced Monday by Walter Keenan, of Keenan & Chambers, real estate agents in the Healey building.

For the sum of $200,000 the Massell Realty company sold to Hugh Richardson, prominent Atlantian, a two-story building on Nelson street occupied by the Fulton Supply company and the Nutgrape Company of America. The building is between Madison avenue and Manum street and has a frontage of 200 feet. The tenants pay an annual rental of $20,000 a year, it is said.

In part payment the Massell Realty company took a four-story building at 24-26 Deatur street valued at $150,000. The structure fronts 60 feet on Deatur street and extends back 172 feet.

Mr. Keenan also announced that the Southern Investment company has sold to Floyd Northcutt the southeast corner of Spring and Third streets for $25,000. The corner is occupied by two dwellings.

For Clark Howell, Jr., Eugene Black, Jr., and others, to Lee Hagan and an associate, Keenan & Chambers sold the northeast corner of Baltimore place and Spring street for $55,000.

Confederate's Vet's Wife Laid to Rest; Died From Apoplexy

Mrs. J. C. Young, 71 years old, of 72 McAfee street, died from apoplexy, according to the coroner's jury who held an inquest Monday morning over the body in the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes.

Mrs. Young, the wife of a Confederate veteran, was found upon the floor under the bed dead by her husband about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, as he returned home from the reunion in New Orleans. She had apparently been dead for five or six days, in the opinion of officers.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from Awtry & Lowndes' chapel, and burial was in Hollywood cemetery.

the Anti-Saloon league in Florida and appointed him manager, with headquarters at Jacksonville, and authorized him to incur obligations for necessary expenses.

Brandt alleges that when he submitted a statement of the amounts he owed to Clarke and Mrs. Tyler he received from them checks to cover the amounts, but that before the checks reached the creditors the funds of the association had been withdrawn from the banks on which they were issued. He is represented by Attorneys Hutcheson and Morris.

REVIVAL MEETINGS NET 2,000 MEMBERS

Methodists Enroll 827, Baptists 750 and Presbyterians 340.

With a grand total of 2,005 new members received by all churches in the city-wide revival to date, leaders estimate that by the end of the week the number will be swelled to 3,000. Enthusiasm continues to mark all meetings, according to the latest reports received.

While official figures will be checked after the meetings on next Sunday evening, many churches will continue their individual campaigns for new members through to April 29.

Additions to Presbyterian churches reported Monday night are as follows: First church, 61; North Avenue, 22; Central, 49; West End, 16; Gordon Street, 41; Pryor Street, 16; Westminster, 9; Inman Park, 29; Inglewood, 45; Decatur, 32; Barnette Memorial, 5; and Kirkwood, 12, making a total of 340 new members.

Incomplete returns from the Baptist Ministers' association show that approximately 750 new members have been added to the churches of the denomination affiliated with Atlanta's Baptist churches.

Methodists Enroll 827.
The report from the Methodist churches show that 827 persons have joined during the campaign.
Dr. William H. LaPrade, Jr., presiding elder of the North Atlanta district of the Methodist church, compared the statistics of the Methodist revival to date at the session of the Methodist preachers' Monday morning meeting and announced them at the noon-day meeting at the First Baptist church, together with statistics from the other denominations.

In his report, Dr. LaPrade stated that St. Mark had received 73 members; First church, 62; Park Street, 102; Trinity, 49; St. John, 125; Grace, 44; Inman Park, 11; Kirkwood, 34; Epworth, 31; Payne Memorial, 28; Stewart Avenue (which began April 15), 1; East Point, 23; Hapeville, 3; Grant Park, 40; Center Street, 24; Mr. Vernon, 4; Inglewood, 20; St. Luke, 3; Pattillo Memorial, 5; St. Paul, 16; Calvary, 31; South Bend, 5; College Park, 2; Druid Hills, 20.

These, with the addition of scattering reports, make a grand total of 827 members received by the Methodist churches. Of these, 434 were received on profession of faith and 393 by certificate.

This report, while approximately correct, is yet to be completed by reports from meetings that are now in progress.

Hope for 3,000.
The total received by all denominations is estimated at 2,005, which encourages those who are sponsoring the city-wide campaign in the belief that, through the work of the third week of the campaign, there will be at least 3,000 received into the churches of Atlanta through the efforts of the cooperative churches.

The United States army has compiled a "questionnaire" of 115 questions to be submitted to soldiers and students enrolled in training camps this summer. Among the questions is, "Who won the war against Germany?"

Sculptor Begins Preliminary Work On Stone Mountain

Scores of Motorists Drive Out to See Borgeum Work.

Scores of automobile parties were drawn to Stone Mountain Monday evening to witness one of the most startling and spectacular features in connection with the beginning of the Confederate memorial, as Gutson Borgeum, the sculptor, began flashing on the face of the cliff the picture of the first memorial group which is shortly to be carved there.

Mr. Borgeum retired to the mountain Monday afternoon, following his return from Washington where he interviewed President Harding, and for the next three days he will spend his time there preparing an outline of the five figures composing the initial group on the mountain. These will be entirely outlined in white paint, ready to be surveyed by the governors, high government officials and other notables who are to attend the banquet at the Capital City club Friday evening.

In the meantime, the greater portion of Atlanta's automobile owners seem bent on visiting the proceedings before the guests arrive, and the road to the mountain is crowded with sightseers who are going out to view the marvelous demonstration.

Cars Flood to Scene.
No effort is being made to keep automobile parties away from the mountain while the work of locating the position of the figures is in progress. Mr. Borgeum merely asks that automobiles keep to the roadway and that there be no interference around the studio building which houses the monster projection machine, with which the mighty picture, over a hundred feet in height, is cast upon the granite screen.

On Saturday, the guests of the Stone Mountain Memorial association will be taken to the mountain in automobiles to be the guests of Sam H. Venable at an old-fashioned Georgia barbecue, but principally, they will be interested in seeing the actual grouping on the mountain. The work will have progressed far enough for them to determine exactly the size and position of the figures, just how the workmen are to be raised and lowered in cages operated by compressed air, and many other mechanical details that will prove of absorbing interest to the lay mind.

In the meantime, the state executive committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial association is rapidly completing arrangements for the entertainment of its many distinguished guests. Acceptances from many distant points were received Monday, in addition to quite a number from the state of Georgia, from men and women who are to be guests of the association at its dinner at the Capital City club.

Banquet Limited.

Because of the limited capacity of the banquet hall and the large number of out-of-town guests, the committee is very anxious to secure definite acceptances from all those in Atlanta who have been invited. General Nathan Bedford Forrest, secretary to the executive committee, asks that all acceptances be directed to him at the headquarters of the committee, room 117, Piedmont hotel.

The members of the executive committee expressed pleasure Monday at the receipt of an acceptance from Senator Walter F. George. Senator George had a conflicting engagement on the date of the dinner, but because of his very great interest in the success of the Stone Mountain memorial, he made an especial effort to rearrange his schedule so that he might be present. He has also consented to appear on the program for the dinner.

General Forrest, who returned Sunday from the Confederate reunion in New Orleans, reported to the committee Monday the highly favorable action of the various bodies meeting there in regard to Stone Mountain. He stated that an identical resolution of the strongest endorsement was passed by the veterans, the Sons of Veterans and the Memorial association, which committed not only the organizations as such to the movement, but pledged each individual member to the active support of the project.

Copy of Resolution.
This resolution in full, as adopted by each of the organizations, is similar to the following copy.

Whereas, the Stone Mountain Memorial association has recently been formed to erect a monument to the Confederate soldiers and sailors who fought the battle of Gettysburg, and whereas, the story of the glory of the men who wore the gray; and

Whereas, Gutson Borgeum, is now in Atlanta preparing to start immediately on the said memorial, which will preserve in imperishable granite the records of the Confederate soldiers and sailors; and whereas, this memorial will surpass in grandeur and size all the monuments in history, both ancient and modern, dwarfing into insignificance even the pyramids of Egypt, and being a fitting tribute to the Confederate soldiers;

Resolved, that we, the Sons of Confederate Veterans, in convention assembled at New Orleans, La., this 12th day of April, 1923, do hereby heartily endorse this great memorial and pledge our support and aid, both as an organization and as individuals so that the whole world may honor the memory of the Confederate soldiers.

FOUR MAIL DELIVERIES IN BUSINESS SECTION

Resumption of Former Custom Announced by Chamber of Commerce Head.

Announcement that regular delivery of first-class mail in the business district has been restored was made Monday by Alfred C. Newell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which has been active in working for restoration of service.

This will result in the resumption of the custom practiced before the curtailment in the business section, and four deliveries will be made daily instead of three. It will be impossible to restore the former plan of delivery in the residential sections, Mr. Newell said, because the tugs allotted the local post office by the government are insufficient to relieve that part of the situation.

The curtailment was instituted sometime ago by the local office, in keeping with a program of economy ordered by the Washington authorities, because of the inadequate appropriation made by congress to handle the enormous volume of business that goes through the postal channels. Twenty carriers were laid off from the routes, and transferred to the railway mail service department, which was not affected by the curtailment orders. The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce immediately took steps to bring relief to the situation, sending R. K. Rambo, vice president, to Washington to confer with the assistant postmaster general. Mr. Rambo obtained partial relief. Postmaster Large made it perfectly plain from the beginning that he would do all within his power to co-operate with the chamber of commerce, and that body reciprocated by inaugurating a mail campaign in the city. No further relief is expected until the end of the fiscal year, July 1, when new appropriations will be available.

'MOTHER-DAUGHTER' WEEK HERE MAY 13-20

Leading Girls' Work Organizations in Atlanta Make Elaborate Plans for Observance.

Leaders in girls' work in Atlanta will observe "Mother and Daughter" week here, May 13 to 20, with appropriate exercises in many of the churches and girls' clubs. It was planned at a meeting held Monday in the Y. W. C. A., with Miss Cora Holland, as chairman.

Among those present were Miss Frances, girls' work secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. E. K. Large, chairman of the council of girls' activities in Atlanta; Mrs. Frank Holland, of the Girl Scouts; Miss Addie Lou Gilbert, Camp Fire leader, who is also director of religious education at Wesley Memorial Sunday school, and Miss Holland.

Sunday Schools Interested.

The Sunday schools of Atlanta will observe the special programs as suggested by the Georgia Sunday School association and will adapt the general suggestions for the week to meet their own local needs. In addition to the program suggested for the Sunday school, class and department observances, there will be a number of community events scheduled for the week.

The Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. will plan to hold its annual "Mother and Daughter" banquet on Friday night, May 11. Special programs will be arranged by the Girl Scouts with their mothers, and a large number of the Sunday schools in Atlanta will, on Friday night, May 18, hold their annual "Mother and Daughter" banquet. During the past two years in the observance of "Mother and Daughter" week, most successful banquets have been held at Tabernacle Baptist church, Second Baptist church, St. Paul Methodist church, Kirkwood Baptist, Calvary Methodist, Westminster Presbyterian, North Avenue Presbyterian, First Methodist, and a number of other wide-awake Sunday schools in Atlanta. More than 1,400 mothers and daughters were in attendance at the class and department banquets the first year that "Mother and Daughter" week was observed in Atlanta.

Forces Combine in Work.

With the strength of the combined forces of the various agencies and associations promoting the week in Atlanta this year, it is believed that Atlanta will hold first rank in the whole continent in observing this week.

The purpose of the week is threefold: (1) To help the mother to a better understanding and appreciation of her daughter; (2) to lead the girl into a more wholesome appreciation of her mother and the home; (3) to lead both mother and daughter to regard the church and the church school as necessary to the finest development of their lives, and to secure their co-operation in the work and support of the church.

The program in detail may be secured from the Georgia Sunday School association office, 917 Hurt building, Atlanta.

WRECK VICTIM BURIED

Last Rites Given Millard Jolly at Decatur.

A crowd that filled to overflowing the Oak Grove church, just beyond Decatur, Monday afternoon, attended the funeral services of Millard Jolly, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jolly, who was killed Sunday evening when an automobile in which he was riding with Boyd Hale, 19, of Chamblee, was wrecked by an inbound Seaboard Air Line passenger train near Tucker. The body was buried in the churchyard cemetery. Hale, who is at the Davis-Fischer hospital, is reported to be in a slightly improved condition. It has not been determined the full extent of his injuries.

Besides his parents, Miss Irma Lee, and seven brothers, Fred, Ralph, Joseph, Louis, Max, Donald and Alton, Greenberg & Bond were in charge of the funeral.

A Spanish-American war veteran, with an honorable discharge, is entitled to a pension of $12 a month when he reaches the age of 62; $18 when he is 68; $24 at 72, and $30 at 75.

Building Material Will Go Higher, White Declares

A continued period of inflation in building material prices will be felt until the first of October, and afterwards the reaction will begin to occur was the prediction Monday by Ralph A. White, manager of the Atlanta branch of Babson's statistical organization, in an address before members of the Atlanta Builders exchange at their weekly luncheon at the chamber of commerce.

Mr. White touches upon the various phases of the country's industrial activities, and particularly the building industry. Residential building has already reached the saturation point, Mr. White stated, but there is no occasion to feel any anxiety about the matter as the deflation after October will not be swift. He stated that at present building materials are more than 100 per cent above pre-war prices.

Among the most promising industries in the south, Mr. White said, is the textile industry. The south can easily compete with New England because of the lower wages in this section, he said.

ACCUSED SHERIFF WILL NOT APPEAR FOR TRIAL TODAY

Sheriff E. S. Garner, Deputy Sheriff Howard Gerner and J. M. Bernard, of Gwinnett county will not appear before United States Commissioner W. Colquitt Carter today for their scheduled hearing on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition law. This announcement was made Monday by Len B. Gillebeau, their attorney. Mr. Gillebeau stated that he had been advised by the district attorney that the necessity of a hearing was removed when the officers were indicted by a federal grand jury.

The only move to be made Tuesday will be a formal request by the government that the commissioner dismiss the warrants and bonds be held in the case. The three officers, together with Lum Erown and L. T. Wages, two other deputies, are now at liberty on bonds of $1,000 each. They are scheduled for trial before Judge Samuel H. Sibley at the next session of federal court here.

CENTRAL PARK BONDS INDEPENDENT PROJECT

Realty Board Head Says Issue Is Not to Be Tied to Any Other.

It is not the intention of Central park advocates to include the $2,500,000 bond issue for the park in any other bond issue which might be proposed, according to George M. Brown, Jr., president of the Atlanta Real Estate board, sponsor of the park idea. In a communication to The Constitution Monday Mr. Brown expressed the opinion that the park is "able to stand on its own legs."

A sinking fund and interest on the bond issue would be provided by the additional yield in taxes which would result in advanced values on property in close proximity to the park, he believes. Other revenue will be derived by the city from the various park concessions, he pointed out.

"Proponents of Central park, sponsored by the Atlanta Real Estate board, which has the endorsement of the chamber of commerce, the Exchange club, the Y. W. C. A., the South Boulevard Improvement club, the Ninth Ward Civic association, city planning commission, junior chamber of commerce, Atlanta Woman's club, Atlanta Hotel Men's association, Atlanta Convention bureau, the President's club, the Lion's club, the Citizen club and of Solicitor Boykin and Mayor Sims are not trying to hang the proposed $2,500,000 bond issue on any other proposed bond issue that is being talked up in the future," Mr. Brown said.

Stands On Own Legs.
"The Atlanta Real Estate board knows that the Central park bond issue is able to stand on its own legs, and we can back this statement up with actual figures without any help from so-called manufactured propaganda," he continued.

"In Denver, Colo., they were able to get all of the money which they appropriated for one cost of their Central park from increased property assessments in the immediate vicinity of the park within one year, thus making the park cost the city nothing."

"It will certainly increase the value of property in Atlanta, adjoining the park and in the surrounding territory, enough for the city of Atlanta to get the money which it appropriates for the park back in a few years and certainly enough back each year to more than pay the interest on the bonds and to provide a great deal more money than is required as a sinking fund. The Atlanta real estate board has gone into this matter of increased assessments carefully and it feels sure that any citizen who knows real estate values will say the same."

Says Figures Prove Assertion.
"I think that the above statements show that the Central park bond issue can stand on its own legs, but even if the city did have to pay out money each year towards the upkeep of this park, which it will not, do we know where Atlanta stands when compared with some 20 or 25 other cities of about the same size in the amount of land devoted to park areas? At the very bottom of the list."

"Have we thought what a wonderful gift the city will be making to Georgia, Tech., which, like Atlanta, more national advertising each year than any other institution located within our city limits? The city will be giving these 2,000 students a park right in their front door, so to speak, where they can take their books and study each morning and evening, without being cooped up in a crowded room, but out in the open to nature with plenty of fresh air in quiet surroundings."

"And above all, have we thought what this Central park will be worth to our children, a breathing place for them to play in. And what it will be worth in advertising our city to the numbers of visitors who are in the city for an hour or so, who now have to spend the time in the railroad station but who, when this park is completed, can walk there in a few minutes and spend the time there?"

Judge Ellis Faces Docket of 246 Undeferred Suits.

With 246 undefended divorce suits on the calendar, the divorce docket of the March term was taken up Monday by Judge W. D. Ellis in the civil division of Fulton superior court. When court recessed until Tuesday 28 divorces had been granted.

Stories of abuse, cruelty, neglect and infidelity were heard by the jury as petition after petition was read. Charges of cruelty and non-support were the usual basis for the suits.

DEATH OF WAR HERO REPORTED TO SISTER

John Alben Rutherford, of Clearwater, Fla., formerly of Atlanta, was killed Sunday in a fall from a telephone pole, according to news received here by his sister, Mrs. J. L. Richardson. The body will be taken to Marietta for services and interment at the Marietta Methodist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Rutherford was employed by the Clearwater Power company at the time of his death. He was 28 years old, and had served with the second division during the world war, taking part in five major battles. He was awarded with croix de guerre for bravery in action.

Japanese Emigration.

The Japanese government has decided to inquire into emigration as a possible remedy for unemployment. Representatives of the ministry interested were summoned to meet on April 21, 1922, at the ministry of the interior in Tokyo. The meeting took the view that Japanese emigration to South America ought to be encouraged by the government. No definite plans have yet been formulated, but an important appropriation will probably be entered on this year's budget for this purpose, according to information coming to the attention of the international labor office.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1923.

Grand Opera Tax Met by Personal Funds of Patrons

Unless Opera Nets More Than Guarantee, Citizens Will Lose $2,500.

The special state occupation tax, levied by the legislature against grand opera performances, amounting to $2,500, was paid Monday by C. B. Bidwell, treasurer, in behalf of the Atlanta Music Festival association to cover the season of Metropolitan grand opera which will open at the auditorium on Monday next.

It was pointed out that this sum has been paid by the guarantors, who came to the rescue when the tax question came up, adding that expense to the sum they have already guaranteed for the appearance of the Metropolitan company here. Should the receipts for the week exceed the guarantee, the tax will, of course, be paid out of that excess, but otherwise it will be met by the guarantors, as an additional expense.

When the sale of seats for opera week opened on Monday, the rush took on an added spur. Patrons of opera evidently have realized that this is the last week during which they can buy their seats in advance and that the tremendous demand for seats which has been shown this year has already seriously limited late purchasers in their choice of locations.

KIDNAPING CHARGED TO LAGRANGE OFFICER

J. T. Thompson, LaGrange officer who was arrested in Cincinnati, Ohio, several days ago and, accompanied by Doc Dunson, negro prisoner he was extraditing from that state, carried back to Dayton to answer charges of kidnaping, will return to that state April 18 to attend a hearing of habeas corpus proceedings instituted by relatives of the negro, it was learned Monday at the capital.

Mr. Thompson declares the requisition had been granted by the governor of Ohio; he had arrested the negro and experienced little difficulty until he arrived in Cincinnati, where he was arrested and both he and the prisoner carried back to Dayton, where he faced the kidnaping charge and habeas corpus proceedings were instituted in behalf of Dunson.

Dunson is wanted in Georgia on charges of selling mortgaged property, according to information here.

INSURANCE COMPANIES FIGHT CLAIM PAYMENT

Fraud Is Charged in Defense Against $100,000 in Athens Federal Court.

Athens, Ga., April 16.—(Special.) What promises to be one of the most absorbing trials ever held in the federal court here began today with the Camden Fire Insurance company and others being sued for $100,000 fire loss, claimed to have been incurred by L. T. Penick, of Madison, in a cotton fire there in 1921.

With more than 75 witnesses summoned by counsel in the case, surprising developments are expected before the trial is completed. The trial will carry some of the best legal talent in Georgia and is attracting considerable interest throughout this section.

The suit for $100,000 is the outgrowth of refusal of the insurance companies to pay an alleged loss resulting from the destruction by fire of the Penick cotton warehouse, in Madison, in October, 1921, at which time 1,100 bales of cotton were burned.

Fraudulency in the sworn statement of the plaintiff as to the number of bales of cotton in the Penick warehouse when it burned and neglect of the fire sprinkling system in the warehouse contrary to the insurance regulations, was charged by counsel for the defense.

WHAT Is Double Gum-Dipped?

Car-owners are naturally interested in just what the double gum-dipping process means in tire-building. For its importance to mileage performance has attracted attention everywhere.

This improved process in cord tire construction is rarely found in other than Firestone Cords. Extremely difficult to carry out, most tire manufacturers consider its expense prohibitive.

Yet Firestone has now so perfected and simplified gum-dipping, that notwithstanding their many advantages, Firestone Cords cost no more.

By this process the cord fabric is dipped in a heavy solution of liquid gum or rubber. When thoroughly saturated it is removed and allowed to dry. Thin coats of sheeted rubber are then pressed upon each side of the cord fabric in a process called "calendering." Thus there is double assurance that each separate cord is completely submerged in live, springy rubber.

The deterioration of tires caused by internal friction is well known by experienced car owners. Excessive heat is generated that literally burns away many miles of service.

In Firestone Cords, internal wear is practically eliminated. Gum-Dipping makes them stronger and more resilient. It is largely responsible for the buoyance and easy-riding Firestone users experience.

There is a good dealer near you who sells and services Firestone Cords. Go to him this month if you are looking for the way to reduce your tire costs.

Held on Charges Of Emptying Gun And Jumping Car

W. J. Bridges' Bond Fixed at $500 by Recorder Johnson at Hearing.

W. J. Bridges, of 425 1-2 Garnett street, who, it was alleged, attempted to kill A. J. Russell, a special officer of the N. & C. St. L. railroad, Sunday afternoon by emptying his revolver in his direction, and who afterwards attempted to escape by jumping upon a running board of a passing automobile, driven by Mrs. Walter Clarke, of 95 Seminole avenue, was bound over in recorder's court Monday afternoon and his bond fixed at $500, on a charge of shooting with intent to kill and carrying weapons without license.

Russell testified that Bridges went to his home at 181 South Pryor street, Sunday afternoon and asked for a young woman who boarded there. He was told that she was not at home. Bridges, who Russell said, was apparently intoxicated, insisted on entering, however, and Russell was called to eject him from the house.

Russell stated that Bridges then drew his revolver and fired five shots in his direction, all of them missing their mark. Police stated that he then ran to the corner of Trinity and Whitehall, and leaped upon the running board of a car driven by Mrs. Clarke, and with his revolver in his hand ordered her to drive on. Mrs. Clarke stopped the car, and Officer J. W. Taylor, who happened to be near, placed him under arrest. Mrs. Clarke's three children were in the car at the time.

Get Three Stills On Fifth Street; Arrest Fred Bush

Boykin and Beavers Lead Raid on Soft Drink Stand.

Fred Bush was placed in the Fulton county jail Monday under charges of violating the prohibition law, following a raid conducted on his residence, 52 West Fifth street, by a squad of detectives and deputy sheriffs, headed by Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Police Chief James L. Beavers and Captain T. O. Sturdivant.

Three large stills are declared to have been found in operation. The officers also found 100 gallons of beer and 25 gallons of corn whiskey, it is said. Bush claims to have been making the contraband fluid for his own use.

Officers intimated that the federal government would also institute prosecution against Bush under the Volstead act.

Another arrest Monday in the campaign against whisky runners took place at the Cherokee avenue entrance to Grant park, when a soft drink stand in charge of A. Mills was raided by detectives, and a trunk filled with whisky was said to have been seized.

The drink stand, located at 573 Cherokee avenue, is owned by Mrs. Mattie Word. Mills assumed full responsibility for the liquor, telling the police that Mrs. Word had no knowledge of it being in the place.

Upon reaching the Fulton county jail Mills was liberated under a $500 bond signed by Mrs. Word and G. D. Bridges.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin intimated that he would have a grand jury investigate and indict both Mills and Bush without the necessity of a criminal trial.

MAYOR APPROVES PLANS TO WIDEN LUCKIE STREET

Expressing his approval of the plan to widen Luckie street, as advocated by the Rev. John W. Ham, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, and other representative civic leaders, Mayor Walter A. Sims Monday pledged his support of the movement.

"I am certain the widening of this thoroughfare would be a great improvement," asserted Mayor Sims, "and I am ready to aid in the movement and do everything I can to promote it."

The movement was launched at the regular services at the Baptist Tabernacle Sunday night when Dr. Ham discussed the project at length and announced that a mass meeting had been called for Thursday night to formulate definite plans.

Under the plans, Luckie street would be widened from 50 to 60 feet between Simpson and Barlow streets, the same width from Simpson to Hunnicutt street, and from 40 to 60 feet between Hunnicutt street and North avenue.

Perry, vice-chairman of the Georgia public service commission, on Monday left for Washington, where he will represent the commission at that hearing, opposing the requested higher rates.

Some time ago the state commission refused to grant the proposed increase in rates, and the express company has carried its case to the federal body, claiming that rates in this state are 13 1/2 per cent lower than in other states.

Miss Madeline Gottschick, who entered the club's marathon Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock has been on the floor the longest, Russell Brady, who preceded her on the same floor, having dropped out this morning after dancing 43 hours and 38 minutes. Miss Gottschick was proclaimed in good condition by a physician who examines her frequently.

Miss Gottschick has set 80 hours as her goal.

Seven women and six men are gliding over the tile floor of the club.

"In one of the dancing academies is a 'masked man of mystery' and a woman, who started dancing at 2 p. m. Sunday. The man is masked to conceal his identity."

Four of 17 girls who entered the contest in the other dancing academies, dropped out today, leaving 13 women and three men on the floor.

An ordinance which would prohibit endurance dancing here was referred by city council to its judiciary committee tonight. Previous to its introduction in the dance hall, Inspector Charles V. Johnson announced that no more contests would be permitted to start.

pounds and on March 31, 1933, was 1,155,652.000. The apparent increase, he stated, was more than accounted for by the addition of the three years in arrears interest on the American debt.

Actually, Baldwin said, the external debt has been reduced by 209,198,000 pounds. The only important external debt still remaining, he told members of the house, was the sums owed to the United States and Canada.

Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the labor party, in the debate on the budget bill, warned the conservatives that his party would offer an amendment to Baldwin's proposal "because, he said, the working classes had been insufficiently relieved."

The only way to solve the present difficulties, said MacDonald, is to accept the capital levy proposal of the laborites.

CHURCH-GOERS RAID FLOYD COUNTY STILL

Leave Sunday Services Early to Destroy Illicit Outfit.

Rome, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Roused by the poorly concealed activities of "moonshiners" and the seeming inability of law enforcement officers to end a condition fast becoming intolerable, citizens of State Line district Sunday morning left Sunday school, raided a "still" on the mountain near Mt. Hope church, poured out more than 1,100 gallons of beer and brought away a complete distilling apparatus of about 70 gallons capacity.

"Moonshiners" have been making a life burden for people in the State Line district for the past several months, it is charged. At all hours of the night, automobiles, known to be liquor laden, could be heard passing at break-neck speed along the highways, evidences of drunkenness were common.

Appeals to law enforcement officers were not productive of satisfactory results, it is alleged.

Will Copeland, a school trustee and a steward in the Methodist church, set out Sunday morning to locate a "still" that he had reason to believe was doing business on the mountain.

An "X" search located not only the distilling outfit, but beer enough to make many hundreds of gallons of illicit liquor. Mr. Copeland returned home, attended Sunday school, and the beer was cut short in order to give time to the other pressing business in hand—secured the assistance of John Looney, Will Copeland and another Methodist steward and another Baptist deacon—returned to the "still," poured out the beer and carted the distilling apparatus to his home.

The "still" itself was brought to Rome and turned over to United States Commissioner Printup.

NegroBoundOver Following Riot In City Stockade

Seven negro convicts were arraigned in police court Monday afternoon on a charge of mutiny during prison services Sunday at the city stockade, that resulted in the injury of two guards, W. H. Thompson, who suffered three fractured ribs, and P. M. Morris, who was slightly bruised.

Testimony showed that the mutiny started following the interception of some notes that were being passed by the negroes in violation of the rules of the prison. A trusty, it was said, reported the matter to Mr. Thompson. Shortly afterwards one of the negroes, Grant Thomas, who wrote the notes, cursed the trusty, swearing that he would "get him" if he ever saw him on the outside. The trusty also reported the threats to Mr. Thompson, who went to arrest the negro while the services were in progress.

The negro offered resistance and wrestled Mr. Thompson's billy from his grasp. A fierce scuffle followed, and other guards rushed to Thompson's aid, and discovered that Thompson had been severely beaten by the negroes. Following the arrest of the seven convicts, a number of the other prisoners showed inclination to aid in the fight, were given prison discipline, being locked in dungeons.

Grant Thomas was bound over on a $500 bond. The other convicts Joe Stevens, Corinne Shepard, Maddison Reeves, William Fambro, Walter Price and Elijah Wesley, were given a fine of $15 and costs each.

BERRY SCHOOLS WILL GRADUATE LARGEST CLASS

Mount Berry, Ga., April 16.—Founded twenty-one years ago in a little log cabin, by Miss Martha Berry, in a grove near her home, the Berry schools will this year graduate the largest senior class in its history. They will join the ranks of the other hundreds of mountain boys and girls who were educated in the Berry schools and have gone back, the majority of them, to their home communities to carry on the cause of education among their own people.

The members of the class come from Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama.

From the log cabin the Berry schools have grown in twenty-one years to an institution whose enrollment this year is over 500. Nearly 400 young men and approximately 200 young ladies are in training at Berry. They come largely from the mountains and foothills.

The diploma will be handed the graduating class on Tuesday, May 1, after an address by Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia. John J. Egan, of Atlanta, chairman of the board of trustees, will present them.

The commencement exercises begin on Friday, April 27, and continue through Tuesday, May 1. On Friday the graduating exercises at the Foundation school, which is the grammar school department of Berry, will take place. That evening the Philomathean and Athenian literary societies will conduct a debate on the subject: "Muscle Shoals should, without exception, be made a private enterprise."

Saturday is given over on the program to the alumni and their activities. This includes a baseball game in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening.

THE first thing a physician examines, when summoned, is the heart pulse. A normal heart will beat one hundred and three thousand times each day. You depend on it to beat every second of your life. BOYS HIGH LEAVES CELLAR POSITION TO DECATUR

Timely Hitting by Purple Team and Errors by Dekalb Club Is Deciding Factor

G. M. A. Cadets Stage Eighth Inning Rally And Even Up Matter With Marist.

Game Called Account Darkness.

Boys' High left the cellar position in the prep baseball league to Decatur Monday afternoon, when the Dekalb county nine was defeated, 7 to 2, in Decatur. Jameson pitched for Boys' High and twirled a neat game from the very beginning. He fanned 14 of the Decatur batters and allowed only four hits, no two of those coming in the same inning.

Boys' High won the game largely on hitting, but seven Decatur errors paved the way for several Boys' High runs. Boys' High got a total of twelve safeties during the game, one of those a two-base clout by Anderson in the fourth, that scored Mallory, who had been walked and reached second on an error.

The hitting and all-round playing of Brown featured for Boys' High. He secured a double and a single and added up many difficult chances around the shortstop position.

Decatur secured its first safety off Jameson in the second, when Walker singled. Walker also got one other hit in the seventh. Griffin touched off a two-base clout in the third and Jameson for a safety in the third and Anderson was responsible for a run in the fourth by a double.

Cadets Tie Marist.

G. M. A. spring a rally in the eighth inning Monday afternoon and tied the score with Marist with a 6 to 6 count, and the game was called because of darkness. Patton led off with a three-base clout, came home on Oosterbaud's hit. "Costs" went to second on the throw to the plate and scored on Kilpatrick's pinch single to center.

Bradley pitched for Marist and served a much better game, but seven errors on the part of his mates let in several G. M. A. runs. He struck out twelve G. M. A. batters.

Marist secured five two-base hits, but each came in a separate inning and did no particular damage. Oosterbaud pitched for G. M. A. and observed a victory, but his mates were out errors that helped Marist in the scoring.

Fulton High won a free hitting contest from Commercial, 14 to 8, Monday afternoon at Brasine park. Practically every man on both teams got at least one hit.

Darley started in the box for Commercial, but an attack on his delivery caused Coach Holt to send Lefty Williams to the plate. Carroll hit two doubles in three trips. Holcomb had a perfect day at bat, with three singles in as many tries. Kelly hit three singles in four tries.

Gay pitched for Fulton, but was touched for a total of twelve safeties. He managed to keep them well scattered after the fourth inning, until the last round, when two runs were sent across the plate.

Fulton scored the majority of its runs on clean hitting. Very few errors were made during the game. For Commercial the work of Williams was by far the best. He pitched well for six innings and hit two home runs, one two-base clout and a single in four trips to the plate. Darley, a battery mate, hit three singles in four tries. Allen hit two out of three attempts.

AGGIES LOSE TO BENNING

Columbus, Ga., April 16.—The United States Infantry school baseball nine took both games of a two-contest series at Fort Benning, this afternoon, when they triumphed over the North Georgia Agricultural college by the score of 4 to 3.

The game was featured by hitting of both teams and fast fielding.

The first triple play to be executed at Benning came in the fifth, when after Fountain and Honnen, the two lead-men of the infantry, had drawn passes and were on the initial and keystone sacks, McCarty hit hard one just to the left of the third baseman and Holder, playing short, was making an attempt to cover the third base and snagged McCarty's drive, doubling Fountain at first and Holder catching Honnen at first. The play was perfectly executed. There was another play of the same nature, but only for double.

Four of the infantry's tallies came in the initial stanza of the battle. Fountain was walked, Honnen hit to the pitcher and McCarty hit hard one just to the left of the third baseman and Holder, playing short, was making an attempt to cover the third base and snagged McCarty's drive, doubling Fountain at first and Holder catching Honnen at first. The play was perfectly executed. There was another play of the same nature, but only for double.

Fountain to second, McCarty was safe on an error of the Aggie shortstop, Kreistrom hit for three bases, Fountain and McCarty scored. Nelson sent another for three bases down the third-base line and Kreistrom walked in home. Von and Paris made the other outs of the inning. The winning tally came in the eighth on two beautiful singles.

The Aggies scored two runs in the second, another in the third and tied the score in the seventh, but were unable to connect in the final inning and the infantry came off the field with a victory.

Honnen had a perfect day at bat for the infantry and Parkman substituting in the center garden for the Aggies, repeated the dose. Nelson, on the initial sack for the infantry, outside of hitting 200 for the afternoon, one of which was a three-bagger, had a wonderful day in the field, accounting fifteen chances, many of which were hard won by a bobble.

TO HOLD BIG TENNIS MEET

The tennis team at Georgia Tech is arranging a triangular meet with V. M. I. and North Carolina University for May 18 and 19. This meet will fill in the open date which exists on the tennis schedule.

A quadrangular affair between Tech, Clemson, Furman and South Carolina will be held at South Carolina on April 27 and 28, and the state tournament on May 12, with the I. C. tournament coming May 25 and 26.

The tennis team has met Alabama and Camp Benning this year. They swamped Alabama, but suffered in turn at the hands of the older, more experienced Benning players.

Tennis is rapidly approaching the position of the chief indoor sport at Tech. Tech has an excellent team in the past, and last year won the southern championship from Tulane in the finals. A peculiar fact about this meet was that the winning team, Williamson and Blake, were defeated for the school championship the next week by Matheson and Melver. Thus Tech had two teams, which it seems could have beaten any tennis team in the south.

Matheson and Melver have returned this year, and Murrah has been added to the team. It is not known just yet who will be the fourth member, and it is possible that all these men may be displaced when the school tournament is held the last of April.

THE LAWS OF GOLF

—By—
INNIS BROWN

Q. If a player drives his ball near a boundary line and finds on reaching it that it lies so that he can't play his next stroke in the direction of the putting green except by standing out of bounds, is he permitted to so take his stance.

A. Yes. There is no restriction against standing out of bounds to play a ball that lies in bounds.

Q. What is the rule covering a ball that stops in a hoof print or a track left by the wheel of a vehicle used in the upkeep of the course?

A. A player lift it without penalty.

A. The rules of golf do not permit lifting without penalty under the conditions mentioned. They do, however, recommend that where holes and depressions of this kind are very prevalent on the course, a local rule be established permitting a ball that stops in such to be lifted without penalty.

Q. Please set me right on the distinctions between the following terms: "foursome," "four-ball," "oursome" and "foursomes" match.

A. A foursome is a match in which two players, forming one side, play alternate strokes with the same ball against another pair doing likewise. A four-ball match is one in which two players to a side play a ball each. There is no such thing as a four-ball foursome, though the term is frequently used to designate a four-ball match.

Send in your questions to Innis Brown: If an immediate answer is desired, enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

A Tip for the Round.

Walter J. Travis says: Resiliency, the power to spring back to its former position, is absolutely essential in a good golf shaft. In selecting a shaft, see that it is straight in the first place. Then hold it, butt up, the end fixed on the floor, and bend or press it firmly; if it fails to spring back, it may at once be rejected. It is essential to its former position, it possesses at least one good quality, resiliency, and, provided it is straight in grain, or measurably so, may be classed as good.

Athletic Club Will Hold Annual Meeting Tonight

Advisability of Building New Clubhouse Will Be Discussed While Officers Will Be Nominated.

They held the third Southern Basketball tournament which was a great success. The basketball team of the club made a record which clearly entitles them to a position among the topnotchers in the south, and a track coach was procured, "Track" Smithers, who organized their first track team, and who has made arrangements to put a fine team in the field this spring. Granger and Scarboro of Tech and Stokes, of Emory, are members of this team.

Due to the increasing membership and the numerous calls made on the club for the use of their gymnasium, the present quarters of the club on Auburn avenue have become entirely inadequate. There has been a good deal of talk of the new club house, but the committee will have definite plans to present to the meeting tonight. It is rumored that a $500,000 building is planned to occupy some central location.

If these plans are carried out, it will give Atlanta one of the finest gymnasiums in the south, and certainly the finest Athletic club house. It will enable the club to extend their work in track athletics, and will contain a large pool for the use of the swimming team during the winter months. A fine basketball court capable of seating 5,000 people will be in the plans, as well as the usual hand ball courts, and two indoor tennis courts.

A club meeting held some time ago, the members present resolved themselves into a committee and nominated the present officers of the club. It will enable the club to extend their work in track athletics, and will contain a large pool for the use of the swimming team during the winter months. A fine basketball court capable of seating 5,000 people will be in the plans, as well as the usual hand ball courts, and two indoor tennis courts.

The past year has been one of the most prosperous in the club's history.

Final Round of Prep Halt Scheduled for Afternoon

Fulton and Tech High Will Battle at Piedmont Park and Decatur Plays at Marist.

The final round in the first half of the prep baseball league will be played this afternoon when four games will be staged on various diamonds around the city. The postponed games will be played Wednesday afternoon.

The closing card for the first half calls for Fulton and Tech High at Piedmont, G. M. A. and Boys' High at Piedmont, Decatur at Marist and University vs. Commercial at Grant park.

Probably the most interesting game on the card for today is the Boys' High-G. M. A. game at Piedmont park. Boys' High started the season off with considerable hard luck, losing the first four starts, but since then Boys' High has come to life and won an unexpected victory over Tech High.

University should not have much trouble with Commercial unless Lefty Williams horse fraternity champions in his system. University has seven left-handed hitters in a row and Williams should be able to turn the tide if he is in any shape at all.

Tech High is favored to win over Fulton, because of the heavy hitting of the Tech High team during the last week. Joe Baldwin, shortstop, will again be back in the Tech High line-up this afternoon. Joe has been out for several days with a bad knee, but he is ready to take another turn today.

Wednesday afternoon the big game in the prep baseball race will be turned loose at Almand park when Tech High and University meet in the deciding game of the first half of the pennant race. University has a slight edge at present but Tech High is determined to win the game.

SCOUT WILL LIVE HERE

Bob Gilkes, famous scout of the New York Yankees, is in town to attend the opening game of the Crackers here Thursday, and furthermore Mr. Gilkes intends to make Atlanta his headquarters during the coming season, according to his statement last night.

Gilkes is one of the best known baseball men in the south and is rated as one of the best judges of baseball material in the country. During Mr. Gilkes' active baseball career he was manager of the Shreveport, Mobile and Montgomery teams in the Southern league.

The fact that the Yankees own several of the Crackers players and having an option on the entire club at the close of the present season is one of the reasons that Mr. Gilkes will make his headquarters in Atlanta. He will be able to follow the work of each individual closely and no doubt the Crackers will be none the wiser of the services of many of the youngsters when the call is issued next season.

I think that Jack Corbett has one of the greatest crews of youngsters of any ball club that I have seen so far this season and I really believe that Atlanta will make some home bustle before the season is closed, said Mr. Gilkes.

PI KAPPA PHI TAU IS FRAT CHAMPION

"Eaglehawk" Whitehead, of Alpha Lambda Tau fame, suffered his defeat in his pitching career, when the Pi Kappa Phi baseball team hit everything except his glove and won the Oglethorpe fraternity championship by the one sided score of 11 to 6. Whitehead remained in the box for the entire seven innings and threw the apple across and ducked as the Pi Kappa combination had a nice track meet around the bases.

The Pi Kappa Phi's had little trouble in disposing of the six frame, when the way of the fraternity championship with Candler Campbell in the box. Campbell pitched a nice game for the winners and with the exception of the six frame, kept the safe singles well distributed. In the sixth, the Alpha Lambda came to life and countered four runs when "Red" Levy trimmed and scored three runs ahead of him.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE STARTS ITS TWENTY-THIRD SEASON

Crackers to Battle Vols In Nashville; Big Crowds Expected to See Openers

Barons Open Against Lookouts in Chattanooga; Travelers Meet Chics in Memphis—Bruins and Pels at Mobile.

NASHVILLE READY FOR OPENING OF SEASON.

Nashville, Tenn., April 16.—Southern association baseball in Nashville will be officially opened tomorrow when the Nashville and Atlanta clubs, both thoroughly reorganized since last year, meet at 3 o'clock. McMullen, veteran pitcher, who will open for Nashville, is the only member of last year's team in the 1923 line-up. Tuero will pitch for Atlanta.

Governor Austin Peay will pitch the first ball and Mayor Percy Sharp, of Nashville, will be behind the bat. Both teams will be guests of one of Nashville's civic clubs before the game and a parade will precede the opening of the battle.

BY HENRY ALLEN.

With prospects brighter than ever before in its history, the clubs of the Southern association will swing into action again today for the 23rd season since the organization of the league. When the league heads raised the salary limit in the association to $5,000 per year, all of the managers began immediately to strengthen their respective clubs and today many new faces will be seen in the line-ups over the circuit.

There was a shifting of managers during the winter. Kid Elberfeld, the stormy Petrel of the circuit, remains at Little Rock; Bert Neuhoff is still at Mobile, and one Dunn is at Birmingham, where he finished the 1922 season. But every other team in the circuit has a new pilot. Johnny Dobbs moved from New Orleans where he replaced Spencer Abbott, who is with the Redskins, Pa. club. Larry Gilbert was made manager at New Orleans. Jimmy Hamilton has been entrusted with the Nashville club and Les Nunnemaker, old major league catcher, is managing Chattanooga. Otto Miller, the lanky first sacker, has taken the Brooklyn Dodgers, is leading the Crackers.

Huge crowds are expected to see the opening games today. Competition for the cups President John D. Martin will award is especially warm this season. Opening games today will be played at Nashville, Chattanooga, Memphis and Mobile.

Of these cities Memphis is the only one likely to turn out a crowd that will compete with Atlanta's opener Thursday.

Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis and New Orleans are the cities that will battle for the trophy President Martin will give to the larger cities in the league, while Mobile, Chattanooga, Nashville and Little Rock will fight for the other. Mobile won the cup in the latter class last season. Atlanta winning in the big bracket.

Schedule for Today.

The schedule for today calls for the Atlanta Crackers against the Nashville Volunteers; the Birmingham Barons against the Chattanooga Lookouts; the Little Rock Travelers against the Memphis Chicks and the New Orleans Pelicans against the Mobile Braves.

The predictions concerning the first division finishers vary. Many are picking the Crackers and Birmingham, who were both in the second division last year, for places among the first four, with Mobile, winner of last year's pennant and Memphis the runner-up as the other two.

All of the four named teams have been greatly strengthened especially the Crackers and Birmingham. Both teams have a crew of high salaried baseball stars. Nashville has a poorly balanced team, while Gilbert seems to be having a hard time at New Orleans. Kid Elberfeld has a fresh crew at Little Rock, and nothing startling is expected from this section. The Lookouts in Chattanooga are expected to present a far stronger aggregation than the one last season and may give some one trouble before the early fall.

The Crackers are a determined bunch and are out to win. Practically the entire crew has had some big league experience and all have chances to return to the big show if their showing here warrants it.

On the infield are the youngsters "Babe" Herman, the lanky first sacker, has just passed the 30-year-old mark. "Socks" Dowd is 24, Eddie Jones is 22 and Glenn Killenger is 24. Johnny King, the utility man, is 20.

The players in the outfield, pitching and receiving, are more matured and with Otto Miller behind the bat to steady the youngsters in the first line

Yanks and Giants Picked as Favorites in Majors These Lads Battle Nashville Volunteers Today

Here are the Atlanta baseball players who will see action in the opening game of the Southern league's twenty-third campaign at Nashville today. It is regarded as the best team the Crackers have sent to the post since 1919 when the late Charlie Frank and his youngsters showed their heels to the rest of the field. Manager Otto Miller will direct the Crackers from his position back of the plate and Oscar Tuero will do the flinging. "Dizzy" Herman will be at first base and little Johnny King will probably roost at second. Glenn Killenger, former Penn State gridiron and diamond hero, will be found at third. Eddie Moore, the only infield veteran brought over from the team last year, will hold his old place at shortstop. Joe Guyon and Mike Burke, veteran Southern league outfielders, will be in left and center respectively, while Elton Langford, loaned to the Crackers by the New York Yankees, will be in right. Now, play ball!

of defense, no doubt the fans will see lots of real fielding in this section.

Many Twirlers.

The Crackers will start the campaign with eight twirlers, five right-handed and three left-handed—but after the first month two will have to seek other fields. Bennie Karr and Oscar Tuero are expected to be the mainstays of this crew of rapid fire artists, while Dick Neuhans and George Dumont are expected to win a lot of ball games this year.

Tuero is well known to the fans of this league as he has been in the circuit for the past few years. Bennie Karr got his start with Memphis and later went to Little Rock. In 1919 he went to the Red Sox and many have wondered why the Boston club let Jack Corbett get hold of him. Dick Neuhans has had plenty of experience. He spent four years with the St. Louis Cardinals and was with Tris Speaker's band of Indians the year Cleveland won the pennant. Last year he was with Sacramento in the Coast league and later with the Reading, Pa., club in the International league. Dick is rated as a smart pitcher and under the bat southern fans should prove one of the standbys for the Crackers. George Dumont, another right-hander, secured from the Boston Red Sox, is the curve ball artist of the squad. Dumont has wonderful control and will be one of the flingers who will work in a good many games this season.

Neal Brady, who has pitched in the American association, is the other right-hander looked upon as fixture on the Crackers' squad. Brady has plenty of experience and should make a good man.

Many Llewellyn, who was secured from the Yankees, is having his second year in professional baseball. "Big Lew" was the star twirler of the University of North Carolina last season and later went to the Yankees. He finished the season with the Buffalo club in the International league. Lew has been suffering from a sore arm since he went into training at Palatka but with the approach of hot weather he is expected to round out into shape.

The outfield is expected to give the Crackers chiefs very little worry, with Joe Guyon and Mike Burke, two old heads to chase the flies. These men are well known over the circuit as both have been playing with Southern league clubs for the past few years. Elton Langford, a youngster, secured from the Yankees, completes the trio. Langford can field and hit with the best of them and has already proved his worth.

Manager Miller is expected to do most of the receiving this season, although Johnny Brock, former American association receiver, will be in many of the games. From all indications the Crackers have a well-balanced outfit and one that is certainly going to hustle from the very beginning.

Tech Relays Will Be Held At Grant Field April 28

Thirteen Colleges and 16 Prep Schools Have Announced Intentions of Sending Teams to Meet.

BY AL STATON.

Final arrangements have been made for the Tech relays to be held at Grant field April 27 and 28. The entry lists closed Monday night and found 13 colleges and 16 prep schools entered in the event.

These relays will bring together the largest body of athletes ever assembled in the south. There will be 285 lightly clad men swarming over Grant field on the appointed days. Considering the fact that this is the first year that a thing of this kind has been attempted in the south, the representation is very large. The Drake relays, the standard for the west, started with only three colleges represented, while the Penn relays, which now attract thousands of athletes, only boasted of six colleges the first year of their history.

The best athletes the south has ever produced will be at the games. In the 100-yard dash, Barron and Anderson of Tech; Chandler, of Clemson; Stack, of Vanderbilt; and Cochran, of Mississippi A. & M., have all elapsed the distance in 10 flat, and it is expected that the present southern record of 9.45 seconds will be equaled in this event.

The mile relay should be a wonderful race with Vanderbilt and Mississippi A. & M. holding the edge. Mississippi A. & M. will send Cochran, the holder of the national title in the quarter mile, to the tape, while the public will never forget the relay that Vanderbilt won in 1919 at Tech, stepping the mile in three minutes and 18 seconds. Vanderbilt always boasts of a fine relay team.

In the 120-yard high hurdles, Kay, of Tennessee; Wade, of Clemson; Brunson, of Mississippi A. & M., and Sens, formerly of Texas, but now a student of Tech, are the favorites. Sens will be forced to run unattached.

The pole vault will be a duel between Locke, of Auburn, and Welch, of Tech. These men tied at 12 feet last year, and both have equaled that this year.

Jimmy Brewster, of Tech, will battle Brunson, of Oglethorpe, for the lead in the high jump unless some dark horse steps in.

Expect to Break Record.

The southern record in the javelin throw, now held by Welch, of Tech, is certain to fall. Welch has already beaten his last year's mark by nearly ten feet, while Prieston, of Mississippi A. & M., and Van Buren, of Emory, will press him to the limit.

Tech will send in strong teams in the half-mile relay and the sprint medley relay. In the half-mile, Barron, Anderson, Hill and Rather will make any quartet of sprinters in the country step out, while in the sprint medley, Barron or Anderson on the 220, Mitchell or Nabel on the 440 and Daves on the half-mile will put up a good fight.

The colleges entered are University of Florida, Oglethorpe, University of Alabama, University of Tennessee, Piedmont college, Clemson college, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, University of Kentucky, Mississippi A. & M., and Emory. The prep schools are Madison High, Emanuel County institute, Fairburn High, Hartwell High, Catholic High, of Augusta; Berry school, of Rome; Richmond academy, of Augusta; Darlington from Rome; Lanier High from Macon, Boys' High and Tech High from Atlanta, Easton High, G. M. C. Wrens High and Baylor from Chattanooga.

The order of events is: One hundred yard dash (preliminary), half-mile relay for prep, one mile relay for colleges, 100-yard dash finals, four mile relay for colleges, half-mile relay for high schools, class A half-mile relay for freshmen, half-mile relay for colleges, one mile relay for prep schools, two mile relay for colleges, 120-yard high hurdle trials, one mile relay for freshmen, half-mile relay for colleges, one mile relay for prep schools, while the pole vault, high jump and javelin throw will be carried on during these running events.

A large corps of officials is being carefully trained for the meet, and everything is expected to run off smoothly.

Tourney Begins.

Asheville, N. C., April 16.—With more than one hundred entries for the qualifying round, the first annual invitation golf tournament of the Billmore Forest Country club, will open here on Tuesday. Four flights of sixteen each will qualify and three prizes will be awarded in each flight as well as a low qualifying trophy. Entries include golfers from many sections of the country.

Release Players.

Memphis, Tenn., April 16.—John Dobbins, manager of the Memphis Southern association club today announced the release of Holt Miller, a first baseman, to the Clarksville club of the Cotton States league, and the return of Homer Bird, a pitcher, to Minneapolis, of the American association.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OPENS

Detroit and Pittsburgh Are Picked for Runners-Up. St. Louis Greatly Handicapped by Loss of Sisler.

Chicago, April 16.—The annual spring rush to the baseball parks will be on tomorrow at the opening of the National league. Bunches of hand playing and pennant raising will be in order. The weather man was being looked to today for his dictum. Preliminary ticket sales are reported strong and indicative of great interest in the opening games. Reports to the office of B. B. Johnson, president of the American league, here, indicate a very satisfactory demand for tickets. While the National league opens tomorrow, the American league will start the season on Wednesday. The schedules for the opening are as follows:

National league—New York at Boston, Philadelphia at Brooklyn, St. Louis at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Chicago.

American league—Boston at New York, Washington at Philadelphia, Detroit at St. Louis, Chicago at Cleveland.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

United News Staff Correspondent. New York, April 16.—In the country of twitters and cheeps and chirrups that breeds race in springtime, there is always to be heard the excited notes of that strange, wild fowl, the bird they call the baseball expert. The motif notes of the experts' weird cry are "if" and "maybe," so that no matter what happens to the predictions by fall time, the expert is then able to beat his wings against the chicken wire screen of the press-coop and screech, "I told you so."

This year's spring predictions are that if their Pullman doesn't get to the horseshoe curve into the reservoir while crossing Pennsylvania, the Giants will win their third consecutive pennant in the National league. The Cincinnati Reds are to finish second again, if first baseman Jake Daubert recovers from the "flu," and the Pirates, of Pittsburgh, are to finish third, maybe. Behind them will come in the order named the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers, the Philadelphia Phillies and the cowed and disorganized Braves of Boston.

Yanks Are Favorites. In the American league the if-and-maybe reasoning concludes the New York Yankees also a third consecutive pennant, the Tigers second place, the White Sox third, the St. Louis Browns fourth, Athletics fifth, Cleveland Indians sixth, Senators seventh and the Red Sox of Frank Chance eighth.

The Giants are so much stronger than the Reds and Pirates that the race there will be a race for second place. Then there is another sharp demarcation between these two teams and the next two, the Cardinals and Cubs, which seem to be just about a match. And these two likewise are distinctly better than the last three, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston, the Dodgers being slightly the best of this bad lot.

The Giants have grown extra muscles since they were flubbed last year, having brought on Jimmie O'Connell from San Francisco to play center field on an alternate schedule with Ed Cunningham and Jack Bentley, of Baltimore, to give them some left-hand pitching. On the frequently fallible word of the magnates it is reported that these two players cost the Giants $150,000, some of it in real money. The idea seems to be that sheer expense will help the Giants very much in the field, and the time is coming when the field clubs will dispense with flesh and bone and simply place a certified check for a million in each of the nine positions.

Reds and Pirates Even.

The Reds and Pirates are almost an even match and there will be awful laceration of the feelings of the faithful in Pittsburgh upon learning that the touch club of the National league is placed third in the if-and-maybe list. The pitching staff of the Cardinals, badly handled by Branch Rike, the manager, was the weakest department of the Cardinals last season and it has not been improved. Fred Toney has been persuaded to play again but he won't make much difference. The Cubs are rated as the league's bourgeoisie and all below them as peasants.

The Yankees will depend more upon their pitching than on hitting and more on hitting than on fielding, having six pitchers, a free-hitting batting order and an irresponsible "I got it" policy in the field. In print they have no such yawning margin of theoretical superiority over their associates as the Giants have in the National league. The Yankees are a team most of whose stars will be old in two or three years, whereas the Tigers are young fellows, well skilled, well schooled and set aflame by the spirit of Ty Cobb, one of the few who can not only tell how to do a thing but can show the way a great ball player does it.

If the Browns had George Sisler, now they might rank above the White Sox. Sisler was the driving force of the team in the fight St. Louis gave the Yankees last year, and he will be missing for some time. Perhaps forever. The White Sox, driven to their work by the lashing wit of Kid Gleason, will make a tripartite fight of the doings around the top. Gleason has a good fielding team and strength enough at bat but his pitching is questionable for the time being.

The National league season opens today with the Giants at Boston, Phillies at Brooklyn, Cardinals at Cincinnati, and Pirates at Chicago. The American league waits until Wednesday for the opening, which will reveal the Red Sox at the Yankees' new stadium in New York, Senators at Philadelphia, White Sox at Cleveland and Tigers at St. Louis. As though to offset the liberality of the Yankees in spending two million for a new park, the Giants have remodeled the Polo grounds and the Cubs have burst through the walls of their last best reservation on the north side of Chicago, giving rise to some minor "dedication ceremonies" in the National league also.

READY FOR INITIATION OF THOUSAND ELKS

One More Day to Get Cards for Giant Feast, Says
Secretary.

Hundreds of candidates who are to enter the Atlanta lodge of Elks on Wednesday evening at the monster initiation at the Auditorium presented themselves at the Elks' home on East Ellis street Monday to receive their qualifications and credentials entitling them to a place in the ceremonial. An even larger number of candidates still remain to secure these credentials. Secretary B. C. Broyles Monday evening sent out a final call to all those who have not yet reported, stating that today will be the last day on which qualifications will be issued. The offices of the lodge will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening for the purpose, and a large force of extra clerks have been installed to avoid delay.

At the same time candidates were presenting themselves, large numbers of regular members of the lodge were appearing to pay their dues for the present half year beginning on April 1, in order to secure their new cards. Only members having paid up cards from April 1 will be admitted to the Auditorium on Wednesday evening to view this great spectacle in the history of fraternal orders in the south-east.

Because of the great congestion which will result at the Auditorium on Wednesday evening, when several thousand Elks will be seeking admission, it will be impossible to issue cards at that time, so that it will be necessary to secure them prior to Wednesday, Secretary Broyles states. Every mail is bringing additional requests from Elks' lodges all over Georgia for reservations for this spectacular occasion, local officials state. It is estimated that approximately 1,000 Elks from all parts of the state will be in the city at that time. Every lodge in Georgia has been invited to have delegates present, and some will send as many as 50.

The ceremonial will be in the hands of the degree team of Philadelphia Lodge, No. 2, which will also furnish a magnificent series of tableaux and stage pictures, involving the use of 20 trained men to stage the performance. The Philadelphia will come to Atlanta Wednesday morning in two special cars.

RADIO DEPARTMENT LISTENERS HEAR ACES' ORCHESTRA

Popular Orchestra Gave
Number of Newest Song
Hits From Station WGM
At Early Hour Monday.

Oh, boy!
Did Warner's Seven Aces give listeners a delightful evening's entertainment from Station WGM on the 6 to 7 o'clock broadcast last night? Did they? Just glance over the list of the late song hits they played and judge for yourself. These numbers included:

"Dearest."
"I've Got a Secret."
"When Hearts Were Young."
"Who Cares?"

"Three O'Clock in the Morning."
"Dearest" was given with a special arrangement by Byron H. Warner, director and pianist of the Aces.

"Three O'Clock" was heard for the first time from Station WGM in the last-rot arrangement, and was given in a very pleasing manner.

Johnny O'Neal, one of the "tootest" tooters of a brass band that ever "tooted," immortally did "toot" a fantastic trombone, trumpet and sax horn solo in the early broadcast from Station WGM last night.

It must be said in all justice to Ralph Bennett that he is some Stradivarius manipulator when it comes to drawing a bow across the strings of a fiddle.

Conrad Bruckner and El Pritchett, the two inseparable saxophonists, filled the ether with mellow music. Tom Bramm wasn't trying to blow his head off with a trumpet.

Listeners were once more entertained by the presentation of the immortal motion picture given by Bob Pittman and "Shucks" Park. Jimmy O'Neal introduced the duo of fun-makers last night and Jimmy makes one of the best announcers heard in a long while. He admits it. "Shucks" also gave his famous imitation of a negro playing some nigger jazz at the early hour from Station WGM.

Certainly no aggregation of entertainers is more popular with the public than "The Aces" and fans will be given the opportunity of hearing the "old reliable" station's orchestra again on the 6 to 7 o'clock offering from Station WGM tonight.

Radio Enthusiast Kills Relatives

To Retain Outfit

Sunday School Teacher Runs Amuck at Prospect of Losing Set.

Nevark, April 16.—Edward Berthold, 22, was a very religious Sunday school teacher until radio entered his life.

Then he went mad.
When his relatives tried to tear him away from his wireless set he saw red. He went to the cellar, got an auto-axe, beat his sister and her husband to death and even struck his aged parents with down strokes to interfere. Then he cut his own throat with a razor.

This was the explanation offered
Monday for Berthold's slaying of Mr. and Mrs. William Beyer and his own suicide.

Mrs. George Hewitt, who lived in the same apartment, said:
"For ten years I knew Eddie and never heard him raise his voice in anger. He was regarded as a paragon of religious virtue. Then he went into radio. He would sit up all night working at his set. The Beyer sisters, calling him to meals, would run for hours on the steam pipe leading to his room before they would receive an answer. At the table he would say 'Do you hear that message?'
When nobody else could hear a thing, his sister told me once that he was slowly going crazy."

Announcement was made Monday of the winners in the Clean Up and Paint Up poster contest, for which a prize of $10 was offered to the one who submitted the best poster with an appropriate slogan.

Willard Jamieson, 4 Howard street, will be given the check this morning as winner of first prize. His slogan is "Clean up Atlanta; cleaner ways bring prosperous days; make your town the pride of the south."

Two students of the Atlanta Academy of Art received honorable mention. They are Thomas Marshall, 79 Spring street, and Miss Valeria
Peterson, 53 Cone street.

The prizes committee was composed of Mrs. H. M. Stripling, chairman;
Professor W. A. Sutton, Professor J.
W. Simmons and Miss Mary Dickinson. Miss Charlotte Smith, public schools art supervisor, gave the decision as the judge.

Grand Opera Week at WGM Meets Approval of Nation

Operalogue of "Lucia Di Lammermoor" Will Be the Tuesday Offering to Listeners of America.

Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, will present to listeners of America tonight, the operalogue of "Lucia Di Lammermoor"—the fourth in a series of operalogues arranged for the 9:30 to 10:30 broadcasts from this station during the present week.

The opera "Lucia Di Lammermoor" is one of the most popular of the operas and the program tonight is expected to be one of the most enjoyable and interesting of the entire week. The vocal numbers of the opera, solos, duets, quartets, and the famous sextet number will be included on the broadcast.

No series of programs ever broadcast by a radio station in America has met with such nation-wide approval as the series of operalogues which this station is broadcasting this week.
Telephone calls, letters and personal visits from listeners in Atlanta and vicinity and the heaviest mail ever received at this station bring expressions of hearty approval and commendation from practically every section of the country.

The complete program for the week is just getting under way.
The response of radio fans of America is eloquent evidence of the appreciation Station WGM's efforts to elevate the mass and quality of broadcasts in the first undertaking of a radio station to broadcast a series of operalogues.

It is evident that listeners of the nation demand the highest class of musical entertainment. Listeners are not only appreciative of the long weeks of careful preparation and coaching of a large number of artists, and in additional work and long hours of duty which the series of broadcasts entail for those connected with Station WGM. But it is a "labor of love" with all those responsible for the week's programs.

To Signor E. Volpi, Atlanta's widely known coach of opera and teacher of voice, more than to any other individual is due the credit for the magnificent program. For many weeks he has sacrificed his own business and given of his time and talent without stint toward making the series of broadcasts the brilliant success they have been thus far. Carefully selecting pupils from his large classes and augmenting them with accomplished Atlanta artists, he has coached an array of staffs whose every effort only reflects his own wide knowledge and his wonderful system of voice training. Signor Volpi is the conspicuous figure in these programs, always directing and playing each piano accompaniment his arrangements call for.

In tonight's offering of the oper-logue of "Lucia Di Lammermoor," a group of the nation's foremost radio stars will appear in roles for which their voices are splendidly adapted. In addition to enjoying enjoyable popularity with thousands of unseen admirers, these artists are widely known in musical circles of Atlanta and are highly talented and trained.

The complete program for the oper-logue tonight is as follows:
"Lucia Di Lammermoor"
Readings from the opera
"Win Van Goldtoven"
Piano selections from the opera
(Miss Maude M. Eberhardt)
Recit. and Duet—Finale I, "Sulla Tomba Che Rimerra" (Nora Allen, soprano; Clifford Durham, tenor)

Duet, "Se Tradimmi Potra" (Elsa Stenger, soprano; Frank Tindall, baritone)

Sextette, "Dove Lucia" (Nora Allen, soprano; Mrs. Le-Roy Webb, mezzo-contralto; Clifford Durham, tenor; John Clow-dworth, tenor; William Dendy, baritone; Wm. Van Goldtoven, bass)

Recit. and Aria, "Alfinson Tua"
(Wm. Maurer)
(Piano accompaniments by Signor Volpi.)

occupy an enviable position in the history of the week's operalogues.
Words would not do justice to the brilliance and beauty of young Dendy's voice.

William Van Goldtoven, reader, gave the stories of each opera in a wonderfully clear and distinct manner. His voice is unusually deep and well suited for his task as reader.
Too, his splendid knowledge of the operas enables him to give the stories in his own refreshing and enjoyable style.

The late program, despite the absence of an important cog in Signor Volpi's program machinery, was a tremendous success and thoroughly appreciated by listeners of the nation.

"World's Business" and no man in the nation is better prepared to handle the subject. A conspicuous figure in the business and financial circles of two continents, Mr. Vauclain is coming to Atlanta today to address the Kiwian Club of this city. He expects

COUNCIL AMENDS MARKET CONTRACT

Efforts of Hartsfield and Carpenter to Kill City
Market Defeated—Sport
Tickers Banned.

Efforts of Alderman W. B. Hartsfield and J. L. Carpenter to halt work on the Atlanta municipal market project by declining to amend the contract now existing between the city and market company, as requested recently by Colonel William Lawson Peel, president, and submit the market question to the voters at the September primary, were defeated in council Monday when that body voted to table the resolution.

Council later voted favorably on the request by the market company which provided that the contract be amended in order to allow the company to obtain a higher premium on the sale of $150,000 bonds for erection of the building. The amendment carries with it the right to conduct a municipal market or any other legitimate business in the event the market failed to be profitable.

The motion to table the resolution by Aldermen Hartsfield and Carpenter was made by Councilman J. Allen Couch, who declared "Atlanta is already in the market business and this request is simply to enable the market company a chance to obtain a better premium for its bonds."

The ordinance prohibiting the use of horses in poolrooms for other than mercantile establishments, for tabulating results of horse races and baseball games, favored by the ordinance committee, was unanimously adopted.

"Can a Wrist Watch Keep Good Time?"

ONE of the pet traditions about women is that no woman ever takes care of her wrist watch. She may smile this off, along with a lot of other mistaken notions about her.

But always in her mind is the question whether any wrist
watch can keep time.

It's all very natural.
A number of women
own cheap watches dressed up "to get the woman trade." And others are carrying costly watches, chosen mainly as pieces of jewelry.

The Elgin Watchmakers have answered
this question in the only practical way—by making wrist watches that do keep time. The Elgin wrist watches for women are professionally made watches,
like Elgin time-keepers
for men.

An Elgin wrist watch may be the plainest of practical time-pieces. It may be encased in the finest example of the gold and platinum
worker's art.

But first and last it is a time-keeper.
It is always true to the one and only thing
a watch is for—to tell time and to tell it right.

Great Pianist Will Return To Play in Concert Here

Opportunity now comes through the efforts of the Atlanta Music club to hear in concert one of America's own great pianists, John Powell, who plays Wednesday afternoon, at the Woman's club auditorium, as the closing number of the series of intimate recitals.

That this opportunity will be more than welcome to Atlanta music lovers is undoubted, since Mr. Powell's only previous appearance here was with the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra as soloist in 1918, and those who heard him on that occasion have wanted to hear him again.

Not only is Mr. Powell a pianist and composer of the first rank, but a part of his public work has been devoted to lectures. Through this medium he has shown himself to be a scholar in the subjects of history, politics and philosophy, as well as a student of music.

In his lectures he goes back not only to the beginning of American music, but to the beginnings of American history; for as he pointed out, music is but a manifestation of the life of a people and must reflect that life if it is to be of value, and therefore must be tied up with the people's whole method of thought.

The true basis of American music, he declares, should, and he is confident will be, founded in a body of folksong that is genuinely of our people—namely the lonesome tunes of the Tennessee and Carolina mountains, tunes which have been gathered by Loraine Wyman, Howard Brockway and Cecil Sharp. A splendid tribute to Mr. Powell and his art is found in the following excerpt from The New York Sun:

"Music lovers can enjoy Mr. Powell's admirable interpretative art. It has virility, imagination and immense technical brilliancy and power. His piano playing is worthy of admiration and his strong, sincere personality is breathed through all the music he performs."

The program Wednesday begins at 3:30 o'clock. Tickets may be secured at the door at $1 each, general admission.

Miss Constantine to Wed Dr. T. B. Howle.

Anniston, Ala., April 16.—(Special.) Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Janie Constantine to Dr. Tom Blake Howle, is the first of the many institutions in Athens to make any announcements in connection with the commencement program, which will be followed in May and June.

The feature of the exercises this year will be the commemoration of the 100th birthday anniversary of General T. R. R. Cobb, founder of the institution, and a man who played such a prominent role in Georgia affairs during the period in which he lived. It will be recalled that General Cobb attended the University of Georgia, studied law there, and upon graduation began his law practice in Athens.

It was in the famous historic Catholic chapel, a little shack of wood, that is today almost totally destroyed because of the large force of pagans living in it, that the plans for the organization of Lucy Cobb institute were drawn up, and it was General Cobb, who was the guiding genius in the fashioning of the program that has meant a school to live and become more popular with each passing year. Lucy Cobb institute is the alma mater of many of the prettiest girls and most beautiful women as well as of many of the most prominent women of the state of Georgia.

"William Tell" In Operalogue This Evening

The program arranged for the "William Tell" opera recital tonight at Cable hall, under direction of Mrs. Charles Chalmers, pianist, and Mrs. Karl Sherwood Jackson, reader, shows a careful selection of the more beautiful arias and duets with which the opera abounds.

Mrs. W. O. Cheers, soprano, and A. W. Browning, tenor, will assist with the musical program. Both of these singers have voices of exceptional beauty and clearness of tone, and their work will lend aid and charm to the presentation of the Rossini opera.

As Matilde, Mrs. Cheers will sing the aria, "Selva Oscura" (Deep Shaded Forest), and will also sing the exquisite duet, "Don Assetti" (Fond Avowal), with Mr. Browning as Arnoldo. The aria of Arnoldo, "Oh, Mute Asil" (Oh, Mute Abode) will be sung by Mr. Browning. One of the most beautiful numbers in the entire opera is a trio sung by Tell, Arnoldo and Gualtiero. This will be heard in a Victor record, sung by Martindale, De Luca and Journeet. The Arnoldo role will be sung by Martindale in the Metropolitan presentation of "William Tell" next week.

As usual, Mrs. Jackson will give her splendid interpretation of the opera story, while Mrs. Chalmers presides at the piano. Mrs. Jackson will wear a charming costume of the William Tell period.

The evening recitals are for American Legion post 78, a fact which makes them, together with the artistic manner of performance by leading Atlanta artists, of double interest, to music lovers and opera patrons. The program begins at 8:15 o'clock.

"L'Africaine" is the fourth and last in this series, and will be given Thursday night in the same splendid style as those preceding it. At the close of the Thursday night recital, some fortunate member of the audience will become the possessor of two tickets to "Don Carlos," the Tuesday matinee of opera week, which is said to have the largest sale of tickets to date, of any of the seven operas. Its cast includes the great Chaliapin, Ponselle and Martindale.

Lucy Cobb School Announces Plans For Commencement

Athens, Ga., April 16.—Lucy Cobb Institute for Girls, for so long under the presidency of Miss Millie Rutherford, the famous Georgia historian, is the first of the many institutions in Athens to make any announcements in connection with the commencement program, which will be followed in May and June.

The feature of the exercises this year will be the commemoration of the 100th birthday anniversary of General T. R. R. Cobb, founder of the institution, and a man who played such a prominent role in Georgia affairs during the period in which he lived. It will be recalled that General Cobb attended the University of Georgia, studied law there, and upon graduation began his law practice in Athens.

It was in the famous historic Catholic chapel, a little shack of wood, that is today almost totally destroyed because of the large force of pagans living in it, that the plans for the organization of Lucy Cobb institute were drawn up, and it was General Cobb, who was the guiding genius in the fashioning of the program that has meant a school to live and become more popular with each passing year. Lucy Cobb institute is the alma mater of many of the prettiest girls and most beautiful women as well as of many of the most prominent women of the state of Georgia.

The events commemorating the anniversary of the birth of General Cobb will be held Monday, June 4, which will be designated as alumnae day. Many women graduates, and alumnae of the college from all over Georgia will be in Athens for the exercises.

Lucy Cobb institute differs from most every other college in these parts in that instead of having all the commencement exercises crowded into one week, they are spread over the last two months of the college year and the same plan is to be followed this year.

The first number this year falls on April 19, at which time the girls' club of the college will give its performance. The club, known as the "Trebble Clef Club," is under the direction of Miss Lois Rosand, and is composed of girls from Atlanta, Marion, Athens and other parts of Georgia.

The annual piano recital will be given May 8 under the direction of Miss Crenshaw, and on May 10, the chorus will sing a cantata, "Pan on a Summer Day." The pupils in the Mary Anne department will give a play, the date not yet having been set.

The final graduating exercises begin Friday, June 1, and on the following Sunday the commencement exercises will be held, followed by the Cobb anniversary Monday and the awarding of diplomas, all same evening. The graduating class this year is the largest in its history.

Kentucky Lady Says That She Was In a Bad Condition, But Took Cardui With Great Benefit

Ashland, Ky.—Mrs. Cora Newsom, of this city, says: "Sometime ago I began suffering with womanly weakness and was in a very bad condition. My trouble was weakness and nervousness. I was just a shadow—I didn't weigh but a hundred pounds."

"I was so nervous I couldn't rest nor sleep. I didn't have an appetite, in fact, did not want to eat. I just dragged around—seemed like I couldn't lift my feet."

"I heard of Cardui as a good tonic and I began to use it. I can't begin to tell how I improved. After six bottles I was like a different person. I worked and enjoyed life. I began to eat heartily, sleep well, and weighed 160 pounds."

"I certainly can recommend Cardui. I also used it during my pregnancy. It is a mild, harmless, purely vegetable tonic medicine for women. Your druggist sells it. Try it."

Confessions of a Debutante

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

Doctor's been here most of the night. If you're goin' to stay a bit I'll do me 'work up,' the woman whispered again.

"I'll stay," I said.

"Then I was alone in the room with Elise. Elise, so little, so thin, so pale. I had watched her face since that fatal day in August, up awhile, then in bed for a period, until it seemed that she would never take hold of life again.

"And all along a sense of responsibility had lain heavily on me. I felt somehow to blame for the whole thing." I wondered what mother was doing that morning. Lying in bed, I thought, I could never have believed her chin, corkscrew in her hair and

Else also disowns her, "trailing in an attempt to get some money from Jonathan. I sell my rope of pearls and Jonathan and I quarrel over it, though I have been able to leave some supplies at Else's door. While visiting Else a few days later I meet her husband and find that he is Mr. Strangere. I visit another man, a father of a child I am interested in, Elise, who is Ill. Kene's daughter. I thought of my own home, luxurious, filled with the very comforts Else had needed so sorely all of this autumn."

And that little room, so pitifully bare!

I dropped on my knees at the couch.
Presently I felt Else's fingers in my hair and heard my name faintly.
"You've come," Else said.

"I'm sorry; I wanted to come last night—but I couldn't! I couldn't get out!"

Else smiled faintly.

"I know—it's all right. Has Jimmie come back?" she asked anxiously.

"Not yet."

"I—I wish he'd come. I—get so worried—sometimes when he goes out." Nervously.

"Why, Else?" I asked.

Else looked at me a full moment.

"I—I get so afraid he won't come back—that he'll go—and I'll have no right to try to call him back."

"What do you mean?" I was

"He might go—and I have no way to recall him. We've—oh—you've done the better way. You've done the right way—and this has been all wrong!" Else was crying.

JIL-BETT

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

This was most anxious to continue. A new element had crept into the attraction going down into the ocean depths had always had for her. On the morning Jack was to take up the occupation, and she would be thrown into contact with him continuously.

As they were parting at a late hour that night Jil-Bett was dismayed and greatly worried at hearing her grandfather remark pompously: "I shall take an extra amount tonight to celebrate."

Jil-Bett vetoed this vigorously, and after hours of arguing and pleading by turns both fell fast asleep in their chairs, dead tired.

To Jil-Bett's amazement, her grandfather was snoring before her next morning. It did not take her long to discover the reason. One look at his face showed her that he had helped himself liberally to the product of the poppy.

She immediately took possession of the remainder. Although he watched her most cunningly to see where she put it, she hid it where she was sure he would never dream of searching for it—behind the stuffed body of the devil-monster.

XVII.

"If I could have my dearest wish fulfilled, and take my choice of all earth's treasures, or choose from heaven whatever I wished, I would."

Both Jil-Bett and her grandfather were too excited to sleep the whole night through, but sat and planned. The excitement in both hearts was so intense. Despite the want of rest, Jil-Bett went to her room, and with a song on her lips and a lightness of heart such as she had never known before.

Jack was waiting for her. He had promised that she should be with him the first time he went down into the ocean.

Jil-Bett was soon in her diving dress, and together they were lowered to the depth of five fathoms. She was accustomed to go into much deeper water, but this was usually the depths for a new beginner at diving. Together they were lowered to the ocean's bed.

Jil-Bett showed him where and how to pick the silver-colored oysters, which were the most likely to yield the coveted treasure.

Suddenly she noted Jack was becoming restless. His feet, Jil-Bett learned upon her that he had been down longer than a novice should remain. She gave the signal to be hoisted up quickly, but not an instant too soon—he had lunched forward and fell face downward at her feet. Both were hauled up hurriedly. It seemed an endless length of time to her until his helmet was raised and he lay on his back, looking up at her.

She heard them whispering one to another they guessed it was all over with Jack. He was not of the kind who could have taken to pearl-fishing, with its dangers, for a living. Jil-Bett's anguish as she listened was most keen, for was it not she who had urged upon him this hazardous work?

It was due to her energetic treatment that he was restored so quickly.

He made light of the occurrence, and would have gone down again, then and there, to show them he was game, had not the officials refuse to permit it, and noted the foolhardiness of new beginners.

This experience made Jack the more determined to conquer whatever difficulties might arise in the way, and become, what Jil-Bett had so earnestly desired, an expert diver.

During the fortnight that followed, he showed the officials, and the rest of the divers, as well what pluck and will power could accomplish, much to Jil-Bett's delight.

Jack had secured lodgings at the hotel next door to her home, thus it happened that they walked homeward together after the day's work was ended. She showed him the fragrant trees, and the numerous branches where the birds built their nests, and the nooks and crannies of the great rocks, against which many a vessel had been dashed to pieces in the force of the awful storms that swept the Katar coast.

He always had a kindly good-night as he left her at her own door. He did not know that she stood on the doorstep and watched him out of sight. It was a sweet joy to her to sit down on the step in the gathering twilight and go over, in her thoughts, all that Jack had said. Once in helping her over the rocks, has hand had, for a few moments, clasped hers. She never quite realized she had a heart still at that moment—she felt like a caged bird in her home.

He was kind, gentle—different from every one she had ever seen. Life had been very sweet since he had come into it.

He would be a great diver, and perhaps they would always work side by side—that was as far as her day-dreams carried her.

"Since sorrow never comes too late, and happiness too quickly flies, Where ignorance is bliss, 'Tis folly to be wise."

Mrs. Mudge watched the growing intimacy of Jil-Bett and the handsome stranger with much concern. She had done her best to warn the girl of the danger of trusting one whose past seemed to be shrouded in such mystery. But when did youth heed warnings?

Although she watched him closely, she could not see that he had any feeling deeper than kindly interest, which sprang from gratitude for the aid.

Mrs. Mudge was not the only one who watched the stranger carefully; there were the government detectives, whose business it was to watch strangers who had the tendency to hang out the pearl fisheries, ready to pounce upon the crooks who considered the time right to make a big haul and quick getaway, and land them in the Katar dungeons, from which death, and only ever released them.

These men dogged the steps of Jack constantly; they never had a deeper misery to know than how he happened to be in Katar, when Jil-Bett discovered him, unconscious among the grasses.

They had patrolled the coast most carefully to sight smugglers and their crafts in their waters. Like the hospital authorities, they were sure beyond all doubting that he had been in disguise—he did not fit the role of a tramp any better than the altogether too large clothes found half on and half off him. They decided he must have landed by skiff from some craft far out at sea, dodging all manner of boats at anchor through the storm which had been raging.

To accomplish this he had taken unusual skill; he could not have been alone, or his hands would have, by their blistered condition, told the story; his hands showed no blisters. Where, then, was his accomplice? Was he waiting patiently here for his return? They pursued the only wise course open to them which was to watch, wait, and note developments.

They were so cautious in shadowing Jack that he had no suspicion whatever of such a state of affairs, nor did any of the inhabitants have the slightest inkling of it, save the Mudgetts, and they held their peace, believing if Jack was an impostor it would be best to learn of it in time to save Jil-Bett.

The detectives were not surprised to learn the stranger had decided to remain in Katar, taking up pearl-fishing as an occupation; his object was to secure their finest pearls, many of which were worth a small fortune. They meant to let him go the length of his rope, and watch carefully what he did.

To the officials of the pearl fisheries only did the detectives confide their suspicions of Jack, which had the effect of making a great dislike for him in their hearts; they were heartily sorry they had engaged him to dive, and after much deliberation decided the best course would be to get rid of him with the utmost dispatch, after which he must get out of Katar.

As for Jack he had begun to take great interest in diving, working energetically to promote the company's best interests. To the other divers his capacity for work, together with his skill in raising his baskets, seemed little short of marvellous. For that reason, he began to be an object of intense jealousy among them.

Jil-Bett was the first to notice this, and she saw, with much wonder, that the officials who counted and sorted the shells showed little appreciation, instead of praising him. Jack kept on the even tenor of his way, heedless of the storm that was gathering over his head.

To Jil-Bett they were the happiest days of her young life. True, they could speak no word down in the ocean's depth, but she was near him, always by his side, a guardian angel watching over him to ward off all harm.

Jack never dreamed it was more than a kindly friendship for him, and a desire to see him make a success of the fascinating occupation. Daniel Bannock was too busy over his task, upon which he worked day and night, to pay any heed whatever to Jil-Bett's smiles and glances. He did not know that Jack usually accompanied her home when they worked for the day was over.

Jack was unusually fond of the water, and despite the fact he was in it most of the day, took great pleasure in rowing Jil-Bett out on the water, especially if the night was fine, and the moon shone overhead, and the stars jeweled both the heavens above, in the blue arched dome, and the dancing waves beneath it.

"You must have lived, spent all your life near where there was water," commented the girl, as on one of these occasions as he rested on his oars, letting the little boat drift, as he gazed with rapt attention on the wondrous beauty of the Arabian night.

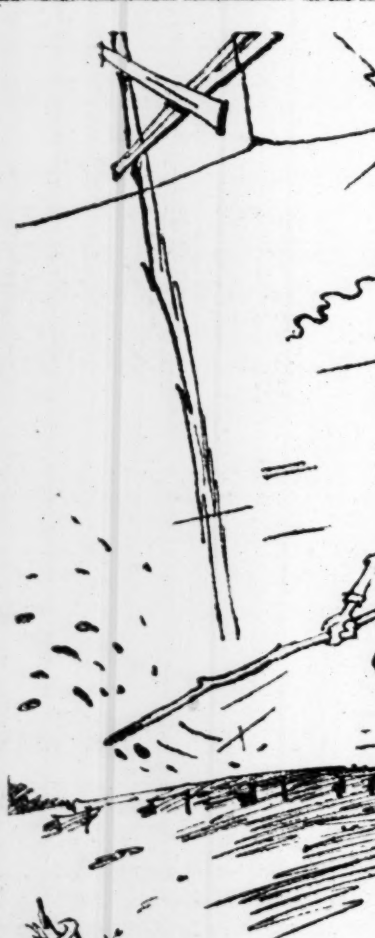

He smiled sorrowfully, shaking his head, simply replying: "Perhaps."

Jil-Bett had used every effort to call back his treacherous lost memory. "If you had a mother living, the thought of her would surely come to you, though nothing else did, and you surely would dream of her, she ventured, after a long pause.

"Whenever I dream, it seems to be of you, Jil-Bett," he remarked. If he had been looking at her, instead of over the water, he would have seen something like a glory light up the girl's face.

"What do you dream about me, Jack?" she asked in a low voice. "Usually that we are out rowing together, just as we are doing tonight; but, unfortunately, these dreams generally end in a catastrophe."

ple, such as we were suddenly upset by some giant wave coming in which I had not noticed, or of a sudden storm coming up and swamping us. I am glad to awaken from such unpleasantness."

"They say 'dreams go by contraries,'" laughed Jil-Bett, but the merriest was forced. It grieved her to the heart to hear him say that his dreams of her were always of an unpleasant nature, while her dreams of him were like foretastes of heaven to her.

"You must often dream of your mother, Jil-Bett; I have heard the story of her and taken off, and felt so grieved for you. It must be very sad, indeed, for a young girl like you to grow up without a fond mother to love you and hold you close in her arms."

A tear trickled down Jil-Bett's cheek. "I cannot express to you in words how I grieve over her loss."

Jil-Bett, whose tongue usually ran on volubly, as they wended their way homeward, was strangely still as they walked through the flower-scented path. Jack did not even notice it, so preoccupied was he in his own thoughts.

"Good-night, little Jil-Bett," he said, as they reached her door.

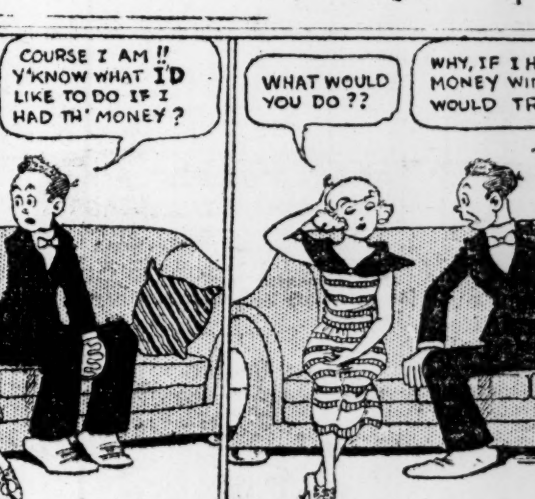

"Good-night," she answered. He did not notice that she did not add "Jack" as was her usual custom when they parted.

How Jil-Bett longed to confide to him the wonderful thing that was transpiring in her home; but the solemn pledge she had her grandfather had exchanged bound her to silence. "There are lovers," the divers told each other as they watched them strolling homeward through the woodland together day after day, adding ominously, "What will Ben-All say and do when he returns and discovers it?" Not one of them dared voice his opinion.

DIRECT TO YOU FROM THE MANUFACTURER

We are manufacturers of homes. In dealing with us you have all the advantages of a consumer buying direct from a manufacturer, paying neither real estate commission nor brokerage on a mortgage loan. Ordinarily you pay both in the price.

You pay one profit instead of three or four and get a great deal more for your money.

We build on land bought years ago at moderate cost and sold without speculative profit.

Being in business all the year round, with ample capital and long experience, we buy to the best advantage and build comfortable and convenient houses, with the best material and workmanship, for less than the usual cost.

You buy of us at the cost of the land and the house plus a moderate profit, on such terms that you save about half the cost by investing the money you would pay for rent.

The house shown in the picture is a charming bungalow on Graham Street, built of long leaf yellow pine lumber and best material throughout, upon a level east front lot 50 by 130 feet, street paved with concrete, sidewalk, curbing and yardwalk laid, large airy rooms with 10-foot ceilings, all conveniences, near Stewart Avenue car line, and convenient to school, churches and Masonic Temple.

All for $6,000—$300 cash, $55 a month, and no mortgage to assume.

Phone Mr. Settle, Walnut 2811, for appointment.

Monday afternoon, marking another step forward in the movement toward better educational accommodations for Atlanta's school children. It was the first time a cornerstone was laid formally for a school in Atlanta. The school was named after ex-Mayor Key.

The exercises were opened with a prayer by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, after the student body of the Tech High school, led by the Tech High school band, marched out of the old building and assembled in front of the new one. The children sang a number of songs accompanied by the Tech High band.

Following the musical program by the entire student body, the seventh grade of Fraser Street school, presented an exercise in which each member saluted the cornerstone with a picture of the school.

The board of education and all city principals were present, and from each school, bearing greetings to Fraser Street school from their teachers and student bodies, were present and participated in the exercises.

The Tech High band furnished music for the program.

Pictures of Mr. Key, Mr. Gaines, Mrs. Clara Knight, first principal of Fraser Street school, and Mrs. W. M. McCutcheon, were placed in the cornerstone in recognition of the valuable work done by them for the school. A history of the Fraser Street school and greetings from all Atlanta public schools were also placed in the cornerstone, together with copies of The Constitution, Atlanta Journal and Atlanta Georgian.

ROUSING CHEERS
FOR "ALMA MATER"

ENDS COURT CASE

New York, April 16.—They were pals at Princeton, but sworn enemies when they faced each other in court. "Hinds charged me out of $8,000 architect fees," said Ralph B. Higgins.

"Higgins is a mountebank and never earned the money," said Hinds. "Come, boys," said Judge Colahan, "let's give three rousing cheers for Alma Mater."

"Tiger! Tiger!" yelled Hinds and Higgins.

They left the court arm in arm.
